

Small War Over Peace Display

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK

For 18 years the big front window of Woodstock's National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties held the town's salesmanship record. Clubs, businesses, organizations, groups and individuals — they all displayed their wares in the window to sell everything from art exhibits, rummage sales and the Salvation Army to blood banks, newspapers and the Library Fair.

This week the window was selling "Peace" and some of the buyers were balking.

Like many another organization before it, the Woodstock Chapter of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship applied to use the window (in December): was granted permission to arrange a display this week. The timing was perfect, felt the Fellowship, to tie in with the beginning of Lent.

The Fellowship planned what it considered a "religious" display, utilizing poster-size photographs taken by an Episcopal chaplain in Vietnam. Example: A: wounded Vietnamese with bandaged head and the caption "I Thirst." Example: a group picture of American soldiers with the caption "Father, Forgive." The photographs were authentic: the captions taken from the last words of Jesus on the cross.

Fellowship members finished decorating the window at noon on Monday. Within an hour, the bank began receiving protest calls. Some protested the photos were too "shocking;" others said they "were afraid of the affect they might have on their children." One woman, informed the display was based on the Seven Stations of the Cross, insisted that, "If Christ were here, he'd tear it down himself."

As word circulated that some residents were urging the bank to "get that out of the window," other Woodstockers began pressuring the bank "to leave it in." By Wednesday, admitted a bank official, calls from both camps had reached such proportions, "We took the phone off the hook after banking hours had closed."

Today the window was scheduled to come down. Bank official Elbert Varney had listened to all the arguments from both sides that his organization should not be "subjected to pressure or bawling around" from either side. As the battle raged, Varney decided: "It was hard for me to decide who was doing the bawling—the ones who said 'Leave it,' or the ones who said 'Take it out.'"

Convinced that the bank should "not be in the middle of a controversy," Varney has asked the Fellowship to remove the display earlier than scheduled. The fact that the window will be dismantled before its week's tenure is up has been accepted philosophically by Fellowship officers.

Says Mrs. Lowell Bair, who helped plan the window: "We tried to keep it religious and non-controversial. The photos were not the type of atrocity pictures one sees in such magazines as Life on Biafra. We feel the bank was most cooperative, and are sorry they were caught in the middle."

Mrs. Allen Bernard, also a Fellowship member and president of the Woodstock Library, said: "The window is my statement. I stand on it and behind it. I appreciate the bank allowing it to remain three days and realize it was quite a departure for them."

Known opponents to the window, contacted by The Freeman, all refused to be identified or to comment on their initial complaints. Said one: "I just don't agree with them." Maybe it's because I'm a veteran and know the situation better from other countries."

As for the bank, it has resolved any problem it might have had neatly. Says Elbert Varney: "When the present window display is removed, we plan to exhibit Woodstock artist John Pike's painting of Abraham Lincoln."

Surprise Albany Holdup

Assembly Postpones Blaine Debate

MARCHI SUPPORTS REPEAL
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Assembly suddenly postponed debate today on repeal of the state's constitutional ban against aid to parochial schools, after the sponsor offered to amend the measure.

Assemblyman John Terry, R-Onondaga, submitted an amendment that would permit taxpayers' suits to contest the flow of funds to the nonpublic schools. "There was discussion among the legislators that this provision was needed," he told reporters. "They felt the public should have some protection."

Terry's action had the effect of delaying until next week debate on repeal of the so-called Blaine Amendment.

The holdup came as a surprise, considering the overwhelming vote given Tuesday in the Senate for the repeal of the 76-year-old provision. The ban prohibits direct or indirect governmental support of church-affiliated schools.

A change similar to Terry's was proposed in the Senate but was rejected. It had been sought by Sen. Manfred Ohrenstein, D-Manhattan.

Tuesday night, however, some assemblymen — including Republicans — said they would support such a move in the Assembly.

First-round approval of the constitutional amendment proposed by Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, R-Niagara Falls, came Tuesday at the end of a two-hour and 45-minute debate during which 17 different senators spoke — some three and four times. The Senate vote was 41-15.

The leadoff speaker, who supported repeal, was Sen. Edward J. Speno, an East Meadow Republican who has announced his candidacy to wrest the GOP nomination away from U.S. Sen. Charles E. Goodell this year.

A State Senator in Albany has challenged auto industry to find alternative to the internal combustion engine in order to reduce air pollution. Story Page 4.

"Nothing we do today is going to disturb the sanctity and security of the public school system," Speno said. The Long Islander said repeal would eliminate "divisive, restrictive and abusive language."

"We are not opening the flood gates of state aid to non-public schools," Speno said to counter charges by repeal opponents. Speno said the repeal only conforms the state constitution with the federal constitution in the area of education and that aid programs will not be jeopardized.

Opponents argued that repeal would doom the public school system and lead to a "round of religious confrontations."

Sen. Abraham Bernstein, D-Bronx, said repeal will lead to the "virtual destruction of the public school system." He said students would switch from public to private schools.

Sen. Albert B. Lewis, D-Brooklyn, said the giving of the Blaine repealer to the people for a decision was a "copping out" by the legislature. He explained that the legislature was a deliberative body and should be able to make its own decisions.

Lewis charged that the repeal move was a "political gambit for the next gubernatorial election" by Governor Rockefeller and the Republican leaders.

Two Republican senators joined 13 New York City Democrats in voting against the repeal proposal. They were Sen. D. Clinton Dominick, R-Newburgh, and Sen. Roy M. Goodman, R-New York.

Ulster County's representatives, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and State Sen. Jay P. Rolison told The Freeman they both favor the move to put repeal of the Blaine Amendment before the people in a referendum. Sen. Rolison was one of the majority of Senate members who voted 40-14 yesterday in favor of such action.

As the senators voted, groups battling against repeal said they would carry the fight to the general election.

The committee for Public Education and Religious Liberty (PEARL) said state aid to parochial schools would violate the concept of freedom of religion. PEARL claims it represents 10 million persons in 25 civic groups.

"We know we're already licked here," said the Rev. William S. Van Meter of the City Council of Churches. "They don't care what the people think."

"However, we can beat them at the polls," Van Meter said. Since the repeal is a constitutional amendment, it would go into effect only after being approved by two separate legislatures and a referendum.

The controversial issue was thoroughly debated in the Senate two years ago and during the 1967 constitutional convention. At that time, the Republican-controlled Senate approved repeal, but the Democratic-controlled Assembly killed it.

A Blaine repeal provision received a major part of the blame for eventual voter rejection of the new constitutional package.

Brydges explained during Tuesday's debate that he was fulfilling a promise made at the time of the convention to repeal the provision.

The Senate debate on the Blaine repealer highlighted legislative activity Tuesday. The Assembly met only briefly and did not consider any major bills.

Meanwhile, Gov. Rockefeller submitted to the legislature a welfare program calling for a 10 per cent cost-of-living increase in payments to the states 1.4 million welfare recipients.

He said the increase was needed to offset the rise in the cost of living.

Even as the Senate voted for repeal, three more organizations announced their opposition. They were the Council of Churches of the City of New York, the Committee for Public Education and Religious Liberty and the State Legislation Committee of the National Council of Jewish Women.

There are about 850,000 children in non-public elementary and secondary schools in New York State. Of that number, approximately 700,000 attend Roman Catholic schools, many of which say they are in serious financial trouble and need substantial state support.

Schools Take Steps on Vandals

By SHANE CROSBY

NEW PALTZ

Six central school districts in and around Southern Ulster County are taking positive steps to meet the school vandalism situation head-on.

The districts are either starting security measures or are beginning to show results of protective measures already in progress as they attempt to alleviate the problem, which has cost nearly $15,000 this year from vandalism and school break-ins.

Damage by vandals is slightly less or at the most, the same as last year and officials feel this is due to protective procedures.

The problem of broad concern in the county has received the attention of Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, R-Woodstock, who this week introduced legislation in the State Assembly designed to curb the problem. The bill would provide the courts with power to order either the parent or the child to make restitution for the damage sustained.

Questioned in connection with vandalism were the central school districts of New Paltz, Highland, Marlboro, Wallkill, Ellenville and Pine Bush, with a combined student population of close to 14,000.

Special

Apparently hardest hit by vandals are the Wallkill and Marlboro districts which report that break-ins have cost each around $2,000 for the current school year.

Wallkill's chief administrator, district principal Leonard Gunsch, told The Freeman that the damage to the school last year was about $2,000; but said that year-long figure has been "almost reached by now" for the current year.

He cited two recent break-ins at the district high school in a one-week period last month, when vandals attempted to break into the school safe and did succeed in breaking into a lunch room juke box, taking the machine's contents.

Gunsch connected the two most recent incidents with what he called "a rash of area break-ins" throughout the Wallkill community. The Wallkill board of education is considering "various" methods of security control and has been given assistance by the Shawangunk town constable force.

The Marlboro district was the only other southern Ulster school system to report a "serious" vandalism problem, claiming that break-ins and district destruction has cost taxpayers more than $2,200 since July. The school's board of education has requested police protection to counter the attacks on school property and has called for stiff prosecution of persons arrested.

Although not as hard hit as larger and more metropolitan schools, southern Ulster district officials are concerned. Even Shawangunk town constable force.

In the Pine Bush district, Dr. Fred Bement said one new rule has helped cut down break-ins. "No money is allowed to be left overnight, no matter how small."

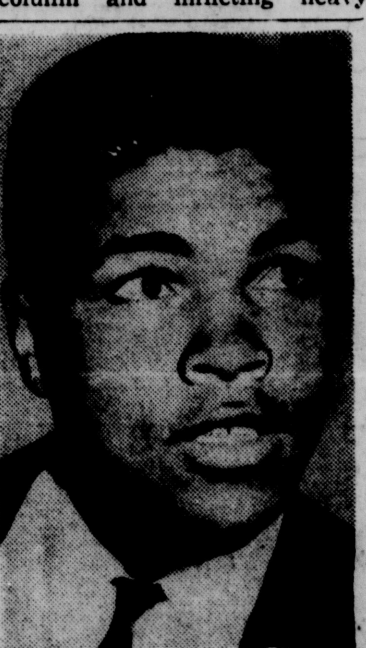

He said that rule "seems to

Egyptian Troops and Planes Inflict Heavy Israeli Casualties

By United Press International

A force of 100 Egyptian army infantrymen struck across the Suez Canal today, capturing a fortified Israeli position, ambushing an Israeli armored column and inflicting heavy casualties and damages, a military spokesman in Cairo reported.

Egyptian bombers also struck at Israeli positions on the occupied east bank of the canal he said.

An Israeli spokesman said Israeli warplanes retaliated against the Egyptian air strikes with raids against Egypt's frontline positions in the northern sector of the canal. He said the Israeli planes pounded army outposts, mortar emplacements and anti-aircraft batteries for almost two hours before returning safely to bases.

The Cairo spokesman said an Egyptian military company killed and wounded at least 20 Israeli soldiers and knocked out three armored cars in the ground strike. Two Israeli soldiers were captured, he said.

He made no mention of Egyptian casualties. In air actions, the Cairo spokesman said two formations of bombers attacked Israeli military installations in the central sector of the canal. He said one formation destroyed

Israeli fortified positions at El Ballah while the other set fire to Israeli positions near Deversoir.

All Egyptian planes returned safely, the spokesman said. He gave no further information on the ground attack.

Israel made no immediate mention of any Egyptian cross-canal raid but said Egyptian bombers attacked Israeli troops along the waterway for the 13th time in 11 days.

The Israeli military command reported the attack from Tel Aviv, saying "a number of Egyptian aircraft attacked an Israeli position south of Qantara. There were no Israeli casualties."

The Israeli emplacements below Qantara, on the northern end of the 102-mile canal, became the latest target in the Egyptian air campaign that began when the Israel air force started hitting Cairo's suburbs.

Today's air action coincided with a Tel Aviv newspaper's call for retaliation against Syria as the home base of Arabs who Tuesday tried to kill the son of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan in Munich, Germany.

West German authorities captured three Arab men after the hand grenade attack against an El Al bus killed one person and wounded 11. Murder charges were to be filed against them. Assaf Dayan, 24, escaped injury.

"The attack . . . was carried out by terrorists who arrived on a direct flight from Damascus," the Tel Aviv newspaper Ma Ariv said. "It shows us that Israel will have to strike at the source of the evil, Damascus."

Arab guerrilla organizations disavowed any responsibility for the attack.

This year's contest has sparked even greater interest among our young girls. A total of 107 entries were received and as of this morning 4,214 votes have been cast. It is not too late to get your friends and relatives to cast that important vote.

Six girls are anxiously waiting for the final count. They are Mary Darlene van Laer, Laura Bogart, Deborah McGuckin, Bonnie Barringer, Magdalena Schoch and Jacqueline Tynan. One of them will win the coveted crown, a $50 U.S. Savings Bond, a scholarship to the Wendy Ward School of Charm, a Jonathan Logan ensemble, and gift certificates from at least 25 leading stores in the area.

Ash Wednesday Starts at Altar Rail

Ash Wednesday begins the solemn period of Lent in area churches. Michael, 3, Jeffrey, 6, and Rosemary, 8, children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Halstead of 9 Orchard Street, receive the traditional ashes at St. Mary's Church this morning. During the 40-day period leading up to the joyous Easter season, special services of meditation and contemplation are scheduled in Catholic and Protestant churches throughout Ulster County with a number of ecumenical exchanges as well. Easter Sunday will be March 29 this year. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Pressure Albany: Withall Letters for School Aid Urged

By WALTER S. CLARK KINGSTON

Arthur H. Withall, president of the Kingston Board of Education (Consolidated) called upon residents of the school district to immediately write to their legislators in Albany appealing them to support measures in the Legislature that would provide more state aid for education.

The board conducted a meeting Tuesday night at the George Washington School for the purpose of informing taxpayers of impending financial difficulties if the legislature does not repeal the laws that cutback financial aid to school districts.

The possibilities of curtailing or dropping some programs and cutting back on transportation $677,000. Additional amounts that may be received under the present setup, would not act favorably to provide more funds for education.

Ira M. Shaw, associate superintendent in charge of business management for the school district, noted that the district lost upwards of $300,000 this year in school aid, and the outlook for greater cutbacks for the next school year, the total loss would amount to some $400,000.

He pointed out that many items are mandated and additional expenses arise from negotiations.

Withall cautioned that if more state aid is not received, it would be necessary to cut back more programs and revise the transportation schedules.

Supt. of Schools Louis A. Salzman recalled that some programs have necessarily been curtailed or dropped because of the decreases in state aid.

Onteora Schools Continue Protest

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
BOICEVILLE

The protest continues at Onteora Central Schools against Governor Nelson Rockefeller's proposals for state aid to education during the current legislative session in Albany.

Onteora's Board of Education had previously made clear its feeling that "the great deal of play being made on state aid" in the media was aimed more at portraying Rockefeller as "education's friend" than at informing the public of the financial facts involved. Maintaining that the governor's proposal to "increase" state aid would actually result in a substantial loss of money and pose critical financial problems for all area schools, OCS spearheaded a county coalition of Ulster school districts to inform the public of the true facts, and serve notice on Albany that more aid was necessary.

This week, OCS trustee Richard O. Langham shed further light on the subject. He pointed out that in 1968-70 school expenditures rose about 9.1 per cent in the state, largely due to inflation. At the same time, Langham said, state aid rose only one per cent, while local taxes went up by 17 per cent.

Aid Has Dropped

Langham and other educators and administrators here feel the state should share 49 per cent of the cost of education, and the school districts 51 per cent. But he maintains that, since 1962, average state aid has come to only 34 per cent and that this year, it dropped down to just over 32 per cent.

"What is happening," insists

Langham, "is that the state is making the right noises to the people, but its fair share of the cost of education is steadily dropping," a trend that "can only hurt the local taxpayer more and more."

Both Onteora and the other seven-member school districts of the Ulster County Coalition hope to get across to the public "what is happening" and so encourage taxpayers to pressure their legislators to come up with a solution to the problem.

Langham told the audience at this week's OCS board meeting: "The local taxpayer has reached his limits. Every time the state drops its aid, the taxpayer has to pick it up." Some of the problems would be resolved, he said, if the state "picked up its fair share instead of cutting back."

Doesn't Jibe

Touching briefly on the expected repeal of the Blaine Amendment by the Legislature, OCS board members made it apparent they opposed the repeal personally and individually "as a purely practical matter." Asked one trustee: "How can a state which claims it does not have the money to support public education suddenly come up with money to support private education?"

The inference, of course, was that the two things do not jibe.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harold Snyder was as critical of Washington as of Albany.

Said Snyder: "We are told the President vetoed the Federal Aid to Education Bill because it is inflationary. But we are also told it is not inflationary to build a supersonic transport, in spite of the fact that there is no airport in this country capable of handling it at this time."

But Snyder also said that what happens in Albany this legislative session "will be one of the most significant actions by politicians for the state in education since 1961."

Onteora's stake in the matter is a large one since it encompasses the second largest district in New York State in area, a fact that would pose many problems should there be a loss of state aid in transportation. Albany, responsible for making OCS the second largest district, now proposes to take away 60 per cent of the buses needed to operate the far-flung district, Dr. Snyder maintains. "We would go from 90 per cent of approved operation to 34 per cent," he says.

For Onteora that would pose a strain it has never faced — a two-thirds loss in transportation financing.

Agreement Reached in Poughkeepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)

The first teachers' workshop in Poughkeepsie public schools was scheduled to end today after teachers and the board of education agreed on a plan designed to meet the issues of pupil discipline.

The school board and teachers said a lengthy agreement was reached to cover discipline, including activity of pupils in hallways.

Teachers walked off jobs a week ago to protest what they felt was the premature return to school of four suspended pupils.

Bruce Bevan, a spokesman for the Poughkeepsie Teachers' Association, issued a statement urging elementary and middle school teachers to report to classrooms this morning.

The high school was to be open for a superintendent's conference and teachers' conference this morning. The high school is to reopen for pupils Monday, since Feb. 12 and 13 are regular school holidays in Poughkeepsie.

Bevan and Mrs. Rupert J. Tarver, board of education president, said the 1½ hour meeting Tuesday night produced an agreement on 25 items, "plus long range matters, all dealing with school procedure and discipline."

BLAZE QUELLED — Kingston firemen made fast work of a fire that erupted in the living room on the first floor of the two-story frame house at 86 Downs Street Tuesday afternoon. Officials said the property is owned and occupied by Melvin Kithcart. When firemen arrived shortly before 3:30 p. m. they found smoke billowing from windows and doors on the first floor. A pump stream and other equipment were used to extinguish the flames. Firemen and neighbors rescued a poodle that was in the cellar of the house. A section of a wall was removed to check the travel of the flames. Fire damage was confined to a couch, walls and rugs, and extensive smoke damage was reported throughout the house. Chief James M. Brett and Captain Robert Schatzel were in charge of firefighters at the scene. Eight pieces of equipment responded to the alarm. The cause of the blaze was not determined. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Prince Charles in Lords, Ready to Shatter Tradition

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles took his seat in the House of Lords today, prepared as Britain's future king to shatter royal tradition and speak out on national and world issues.

The 21-year-old heir to the crown, clad in scarlet robes trimmed with Ermine, circled the packed chamber and took a seat to the right of the throne in accord with a law that dates back to King Henry VIII.

Princess Anne, his sister, was there as an honored guest. So was Princess Margaret, his aunt. But his father, Prince Philip, was en route to New York and his mother, Queen Elizabeth, stayed away, following tradition.

Charles was the sixth Prince of Wales to be introduced in Parliament in 285 years. His immediate predecessor in the quaint ceremony was the present Duke of Windsor, who took his seat 52 years ago.

After several minutes next to the throne, Charles removed his robes and moved to the front crossbench, which has no political ties.

It is from there he will debate and vote on his country's laws whenever he chooses. Buckingham Palace sources said Charles planned to take an active part in debates on the issues he champions.

These include the responsibilities of youth, social welfare, conservation, pollution and the problems of Wales.

An excellent speaker graced with style and wit, he flavors his words with the forthrightness that has become Prince Philip's trademark.

"Charles has shown that when he speaks a lot of the world is likely to pay attention," a palace source said.

The pomp that attended Charles' introduction may soon be a relic. The hereditary principle that gives holders of the titles of baron and above the privilege of acting as legislators is under attack by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government.

Thus Charles may be the last Prince of Wales to have been introduced. Proposed reforms would have Lords appointed with titles that cannot be passed on to their descendants.

Auto Industry Challenged

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A Republican state senator challenged the automobile industry today to find an alternative to the internal combustion engine "in the shortest possible time" in order to reduce deaths related to air pollution.

"The automobile is the single greatest fouler of the air, accounting for 50 per cent of the pollutants dumped into our atmosphere," Sen. Norman F. Lent warned.

Lent, from Lynbrook, Long Island, commented in remarks for a public hearing on proposed legislation to prohibit the use of internal combustion engines in new automobiles, effective in 1975, and to phase out lead additives in gasoline.

About 20 witnesses were scheduled to testify at today's hearing, conducted jointly by Lent and Sen. Edward J. Speno, R-East Meadow, Long Island. Lent and Speno are the chairmen of the legislature's study committees on public health and transportation, respectively.

Lent said leaders of the automotive industry maintain they can develop a pollution-free, internal combustion engine powered by gasoline or alternative sources of power. But, Lent added, "they say they may do either of these things in ten years' time. Well, the people of New York State simply cannot afford to wait that long."

In a related development Tuesday, Democratic Assemblyman Peter A. A. Berle of Manhattan introduced a bill under which individuals would be able to sue anyone they believe to be polluting or destroying the environment.

The purpose of the measure, Berle told reporters, is to develop "a body of common law protection."

Witnesses listed for today's hearing included officials of the state's Health and Conservation departments, oil companies and various research groups.

Dr. Thaddeus J. Murawski spoke at the hearing on behalf of the State Health Commissioner Hollis S. Ingraham.

Murawski said "statistics and probabilities strongly suggest motor vehicle exhausts as detrimental to human health." He added that many compounds of these exhausts can be identified but that "there are probably many more compounds that have not been identified and their potential toxicity remains unknown."

Chicago '7'-- A NLF Charge

CHICAGO (UPI)—The U.S. government is arguing that the "Chicago Seven" came to the 1968 Democratic national convention to use violence and establish "a National Liberation Front in the United States."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Schultz made the charge Tuesday in the government's final arguments at the trial of the seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots at the convention.

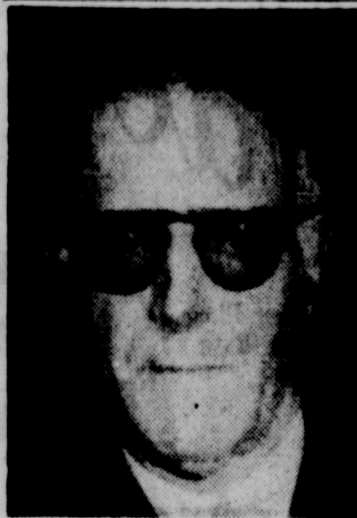

The government had several hours left for its final arguments, but indicated it would keep some time for rebuttal. The defense was to begin its final arguments today. It appeared the case could go to the jury Friday.

Extra Hour Granted

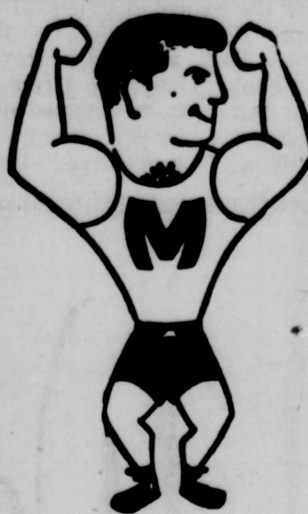

Schultz asked U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman for an extra hour's time Tuesday. Hoffman had given both the prosecution and defense seven hours for final arguments.

Defense attorney William M. Kunstler objected to the request and charged Schultz was running behind because of "constant repetition."

"I don't think we ought to change the rules just because Mr. Schultz has found that he does not have enough time," Hoffman then granted an extra hour to both sides.

Highway Department Members

Two Added Holidays in Red Hook

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

A matter of personnel policy was discussed at the Red Hook Town Board meeting Tuesday night, affecting holiday time off.

Members of the Highway Department had requested Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays off as holiday time, and it was finally agreed to allow the men this time. "They put in long hours during the snow falls," commented Supervisor Warren Simmons.

It had also been mentioned by some highway employees that the pay rate was not equitable with that of surrounding towns, and that part-time help received the same pay as full-time workers.

Supervisor Simmons said he had compared pay scales and said that Red Hook's "is comparable" to others, although Red Hook pays no time-and-a-half for overtime, as does neighboring Rhinebeck. Simmons also expressed his opinion that part-time help should receive the same hourly pay rate as full-time employees, as it is difficult to obtain most of the time and performs much the same duties.

The board decided to formulate a policy about which holidays will be allowed, with the cooperation of the highway superintendent Harold Trow. Past policy has been to leave the decision up to Trow. Judge Albert Trezza suggested that the policy include all present and future town-employed personnel.

"Seven paid holidays per year falls in line..." with the proposed policy, according to Simmons.

A vacancy on the zoning commission due to the resignation of Trezza was filled by appointment of Richard Mahoney of Benner Road. Mahoney had been active in soliciting support for zoning in the past.

Trezza has tendered his resignation as town attorney since taking the job of justice of the peace to succeed the late Frank Martin. Trezza's resignation as attorney will be effective when another attorney is appointed.

A public hearing will be held prior to the regular meeting of the Town Board March 10 at 8 p.m. on proposed pay raises for the two town justices. Justification for the raises noted by Simmons was that both justices will be termed "active" King in the future. Salaries proposed by the board are $3,600 a year for Ellmore Fraleigh and $2,800 a year for Trezza.

A tentative date for a meeting with our town and village officials in Red Hook, Tivoli and Rhinebeck on proposed cable television service was set for Feb. 24 by the board. Both Kingston Cablevision and WEOK of Poughkeepsie have expressed interest in commencing service to the two towns and three villages.

Members of the building committee will meet with architects for the proposed addition to the town hall in the near future. More than one architect is being consulted for comparison of figures.

A Highway Department building has been almost completed to house equipment. Keil Farm Supply gave the town a bill of $2,000 for construction.

Simmons read a notice from the State Motor Vehicle Department, stating that regulations now allow a town to issue subpoenas on junk cars left along the public right of way.

The town resolved to purchase a voting machine to augment its number for $1,728.

Letters from the public were read, commending the board on good snow removal during recent storms, and favoring zoning.

And a communication from Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz was read, asking that any identical bids received from companies should be reported to that state office for investigation.

Proposed School System Goals

Opinions Expressed in Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK

Rhinebeck School District residents expressed their opinions on a proposed set of Board of Education goals Tuesday night at the high school, questioning the applicability of the 14 points.

A committee of residents, board members, and educators have spent nearly two years compiling the goals, which span student, personnel, and board objectives and policy.

Chairman of the committee, Hans Boehm, told The Freeman that he is "anxious to see if these goals will be useful in measuring our educational system."

"Implementation has been left to a future committee," he said. "The major question asked is 'Is our teaching program relevant?'"

Some questions were raised on the scope of a goal which states, "To provide for students instruction in an opportunity to practice the principles of democracy."

James Hawce questioned whether that goal was realized when refusal for students to participate in war moratorium procedures was stated by the board last fall. Bohm answered, "They can demonstrate on anything they like, after 2:30 p.m."

Another point of contention was brought up by M'Anite

Rider, who asked whether a goal was supposed to affect the children after they had left the school system, namely: "To strive to develop behavior patterns (character, manners, morals) which lead to a full and productive life." This was interpreted as beyond the advisability of the school system.

The committee will submit the list of goals to the Board of Education, which will act on it. The moving force for beginning this project was the outgrowth of the Rhinebeck Citizens Committee two years ago after a austerity budget had to be adopted in the district.

Reconciliation Try Made With Teachers

RHINEBECK

Rhinebeck Board of Education's Monday night meeting was spent largely in an attempt to reconcile differences with the Rhinebeck Teachers Association on the length of the pupil day.

A meeting of the advisory council will take place Feb. 18, at which time a report of a Board of Education committee will be read. The issue has been discussed since last summer, with no resolution thus far.

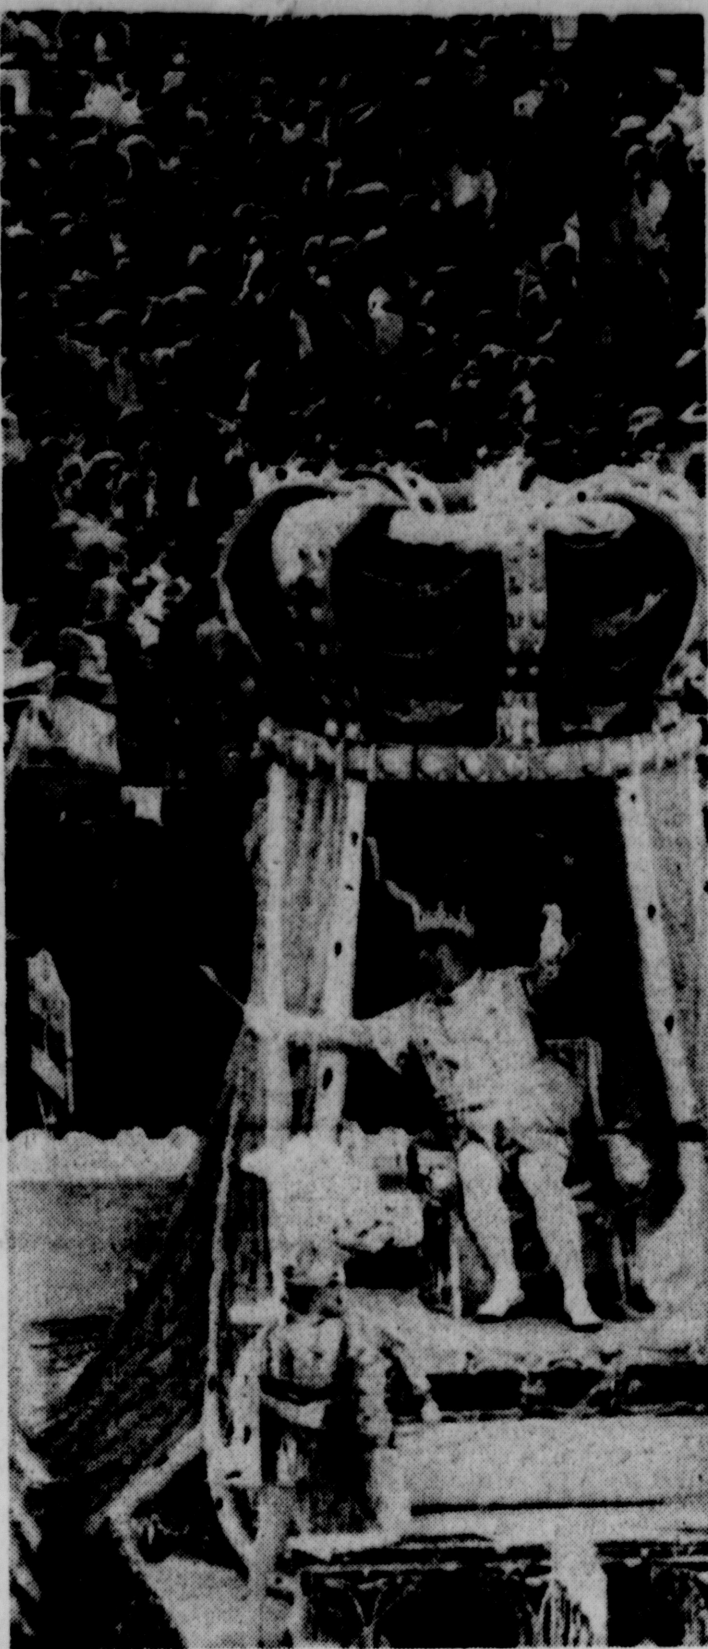

The board appointed five faculty members for tenure. They are: Robert Cushing, high school mathematics; Delano Landsverk, high school social studies; Mrs. Shirley Ayers, high school physical education;

Miss Judy Ellis, elementary teacher and Anthony Meliti, elementary physical education.

District Principal Ralph Steeves made mention of excessive absenteeism to board members, noting that probable causes were for illness. Both students and teachers have been adversely affected.

Foresees Revolution

If a private citizen had written what Justice William O. Douglas has written in his book, "Points of Rebellion," we do not doubt that he would be called to account and his case would reach the Supreme Court, where Douglas has sat for 31 years. For instance, Douglas writes:

"George III was the symbol against which our Founders made a revolution now considered bright and glorious. We must realize that today's Establishment is the new George III. Whether it will continue to adhere to its tactics we do not know. If it does, the redress, honored in tradition, is also revolution."

Acknowledging that violence has no constitutional sanction, Douglas states, "But where grievances pile high and most of the elected spokesmen represent the Establishment, violence may be the only effective response."

The Establishment which Douglas equates with George III, he singles out one by one, leading with: The Pentagon, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the Central Intelligence Agency. These are the heart of our national defense. The book, a slim 97-page volume, will be published February 19 by Random House.

If the rest of it is as incendiary as these few quotations, the book should be closely examined by the Senate Judiciary Committee. It should decide whether these ideas constitute an incitement to revolution, and if they do, what penalty the inciter should pay.

When in the last two years, three nominees for the Supreme Court have been put through the wringer for their beliefs and acts, surely these tenets, which strike at the institutions that support our government, and promulgated by a sitting member of the Supreme Court, should be searchingly weighed by Congress.

Bottling Up Pollution

Oregon represents on a small scale the magnitude of the problem facing the nation in reversing the pollution of its air, water and landscape.

It is not the magnitude of the junk; it is the magnitude of our indifference.

In the interim before the biennial state legislature meets in 1971, a committee is studying proposals to ban no-return in the state and to require a five-cent deposit on every beverage can and bottle.

"My commitment," said Gov. Tom McCall recently, "is to put a price on the head of every beer and pop can and bottle sold in the U.S."

But a similar measure in the 1969 Oregon Legislature was defeated by the combined lobbies of bottle and can manufacturers and bottling companies, who would have the state rely solely on education and persuasion.

A slogan of the National Soft Drink Association is, "Hands alone cause litter," reminiscent of the National Rifle Association's "Guns don't kill people; people kill people."

There is no assurance that a nickel deposit will stop thoughtless people from messing up the environment, in Oregon or anywhere else. But it is certain that no amount of persuasion will ever do it.

The whole pollution problem boils down to this:

Do we really want to clean up America? Are we, private citizen and industry alike, willing to pay what it will cost—not only in terms of money but in terms of "conveniences" we now take for granted, from throw-away bottles on the local beach to throwaway sewage in the local river?

As of now, the answer is a resounding "No!"

Henry J. Taylor Says Scott's Superb Performance

Actor George C. Scott may be a man of many parts but he is performing one now with immense credit to his hard profession. Surely, few joys equal the joy of seeing somebody do something anything superbly well, and that is what Scott does in the magnificent new picture, "Patton: A Salute to a Rebel."

Moliere was almost refused a Christian burial because he was once an actor. The pious Dauphin, son of Louis XV, held his hands over his eyes whenever he passed a theatre. Samuel Pepys said, "Hamlet disgusts this refined age," and for 150 years Shakespeare was vilified to suit the silliest demands. Voltaire described him, in fact, as "a genius of force, philosophy and fecundity without a ray of taste" or any knowledge of the rules of drama.

This, then, is the ancient and turbulent world in which an actor like Scott is lifting one grain of sand in his own special way in an art so old that no one can give the date of its beginning.

Brilliant, irascible, indomitable four-star Gen. George S. Patton Jr. was the greatest field commander of World War II. The ancient basic principles of war—the principle of the objective, economy of force, mobility, surprise, simplicity of plan—have never changed. Commanders throughout the ages have attempted to master these. We think of Alexander the Great, of Leonidas at Thermopylae, of Sobieski facing the Turks at Vienna, or the mastership of Robert E. Lee. Patton mastered these principles with nearly incredible results against every enemy commander he met, including the tactical master, Marshal Erwin Rommel, whom he finally defeated.

Between August 1, 1944, and May 9, 1945, Patton's Third Army liberated 12,000 cities and communities, marched 1,225 miles in 291 days of combat, crossed 24 major rivers, and captured 81,500 square miles of territory. He was the first man since 1100 to conquer the historic Metz fortress, relieved our troops at surrounded Bastogne by one of the most daring maneuvers in the whole history of war and took more Nazi prisoners than any other single army in the entire war.

I knew this mercurial man intimately, with affection and lived with him in many places—in North Africa, France, Luxembourg, in his "blackened out" rush across southern Germany; in the best of his good moments and the worst of his bad. And I looked at Scott's portrayal in sheer amazement.

Producer Frank McCarthy, himself a distinguished wartime aide to Gen. George C. Marshall, went abroad with Gen. Omar N. Bradley to stake out the sites assimilating Patton's campaigns, and I saw this picture being made in North Africa and Europe.

They chose the barren stretches in Spain's Almeria region to stand in for Sicily, where Patton's conquest of western Sicily is already a classic in the study halls at West Point. They chose the forest outside Segovia, Spain, to serve as the snow-covered forests of the Ardennes for the great Battle of the Bulge. It was necessary to make much of the picture in Spain because authentic World War II equipment was not available elsewhere nor had any other army except the Spanish army the personnel to run it.

A vast outdoor film in these dimensions is a remarkable thing to see produced. But it proved impossible to really grasp Scott's total submersion into Patton until at the New York premiere I saw him step onto the screen.

Imagine how hard that must be for an actor to do. For this picture is much more than a war story. It is a story of the innards, the hopes, and fears, the frustrations, the personal victories and collapses of a fated and nearly mystical man; his glaring moments of inspired leadership and then of human weakness; his outrageous blasphemy and then his genuine tenderness, and the hold of Patton's fascination on others, that was entirely his own.

"The aim of any worthy artist in my medium is to communicate," said famous critic Walter Pater. This is Scott's triumph. He had communicated the innards of an exceedingly complex American hero, his life and times, with literally a touch of genius.

For trading with Rhodesia which, next to Russia, is the world's largest supplier of the metal.

However, the matter is not one of trade or even justice. It is primarily a question of national interest, as former Secretary of State Dean Acheson has said.

Since Rhodesia threatens no one, what national interests are served by Washington's meddling in the domestic affairs of the little country?

One understands Wilson, who wants to subvert the Salisbury government in order to appease the militant leftists in his Labor party.

He also seeks to protect British interests in Africa. It is for this reason that Britain supplied arms to Nigeria to the detriment of the Biafrans. But America has no reason to act as Wilson's accomplice.

It is yet to be proven that the United States gained a single friend among the African states by its short-sighted policy.

The question of Rhodesia has not been fairly presented to the American people. The fact is that when the country becomes an independent republic in May, its constitution will allow the formation of a multiracial society—without sacrificing the lives and rights of the white inhabitants.

It is traditional U.S. policy that diplomatic relations with any country do not imply approval of its form of government. Why, then, discriminate against Rhodesia.

Jack Anderson Says Power Company Holds Up Line That Could Affect ABM System

WASHINGTON — The controversial anti-missile system faces a power blackout that could shut down a vital site even as enemy missiles sped toward U.S. targets.

The faulty link in the defensive chain is located on the remote plains of Montana where a politically powerful private utility company has blocked efforts to build a $3.3 million, federally financed transmission line.

A confidential engineering report, obtained by this column, tells of the danger. Written in technical jargon for the most part, its grim conclusions are these:

"The Department of Defense has made inquiry regarding power supply relative to the installation of ABM missiles in the area. The projected ABM and associated load is estimated to be 15.75 megawatts.

"When compared to a total area load in 1970 of about 49 megawatts, this represents an unforeseen increase in the area loads of over 30 per cent. This increase in load makes the necessary transmission additions in the area even more urgent."

It is signed by W.E. Trommershausen, chief consulting engineer for R. W. Beck and Associates, a nationally known engineering firm.

In plain terms, the study shows that the anti-missile system would so overload the present transmission system, that if the Defense Department's auxiliary power failed, a push of that fatal button might not fire the ABM missiles in the area.

Too Small for Job
Congress has already appropriated the $435,000 it will take to start the transmission line and begin closing the federal gap in America's ABM system. But Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel has to release the money before it can be spent.

The main opponent is the stockholder-owned Montana Power Company. Its board chairman, J.E. Corlette, was President Nixon's Western finance chairman in 1968.

Corlette's firm is building a smaller line, which the confidential study makes clear is unmistakably too small to do the job.

America has already had a trial run of just what danger there is in a Western line failure. Last April 4, out in Montana's sparsely populated Minuteman country, a hunter potshot a power insulator and blacked out the area for half a day.

In theory, the military transformers would whir into life to keep the missile defenses intact. But military sources have quietly told Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., that some of their emergency power generators didn't work during the April 4 blackout.

The tone of the confidential study is urgent, particularly for a document written in technical terms. At one point, it says the Bureau of Reclamation transmission line "is required as soon as it can be constructed."

Secretary Hickel has a difficult choice for a politician-turned interior chief: Should he buck one of the nation's most powerful political businessmen—or make sure that the ABM system fires off properly if the dreadful day of reckoning ever comes?

Kirk's Road Show
Claude Kirk, the flamboyant Florida governor, is a big man in Tallahassee, but he tends to get lost in the shuffle of VIPs when he comes to Washington.

So the governor has taken steps to give his every trip to the nation's capital the aura of a state visit by a foreign dignitary.

He keeps a special pair of Florida governor's license plates and a set of fender flag attachments at the Hertz car rental office in Washington.

When Kirk comes to town, his rented Cadillacs are festooned with flags and fitted with bright green tags emblazoned with the word "Governor."

Just in case this fails to let people know he is no ordinary fatcat, Kirk also travels with a uniformed, armed state trooper at his side.

Mixed-Up Mail
At least two people secretly suspect that the White House may be exaggerating the mail count in favor of President Nixon's and Vice President Agnew's speeches.

When Agnew blasted the TV networks, for example, CBS-TV's President Frank Stanton returned the fire. Not long afterward, he received a solemn thank-you letter from Agnew.

"Your support of the position I have taken is noted," wrote Agnew. "It is encouraging to know you share my view on this subject."

Earlier, Mrs. Elizabeth Mauchline, a Bowie, Md., housewife who wears both a peace button and an American flag, sent a wire to President Nixon protesting his Vietnam speech. She was suitably awed when an envelope came back with a White House return address.

Inside was a message from the President, printed beneath a gold presidential emblem: "Your support in our pursuit of peace in Vietnam means a great deal to me."

If Stanton's statement and Mrs. Mauchline's message found their way into the "pro" pile of mail, how many others in those much publicized piles are really "anti" sentiments?

North Viet Hideouts Periled

U. S. Undermining Foe in Laos

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

A vital part of President Nixon's Vietnam strategy has never been told in public.

Vietnamization has been announced with some fanfare. No secret has been made of the continued heavy bombing of the Ho Chi Minh trails. Weekly American battle-death reports attest to the pressure U.S. troops are bringing on the Communist forces.

But however confident the White House announcements, no knowledgeable strategist now believes these pressures by themselves will bring Hanoi to negotiations, or force the North Vietnamese expeditionary armies to go home.

The secret is tied up in some unreported aspects of American operations in Laos and in certain relations being developed with Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia.

Some American activities in Laos have been advertised. But these publicized actions—bombings, logistical support and advisers for Lao armies—aren't what the operation is all about.

For security reasons, certain Laos and Cambodian operations cannot be reported in detail. Their purpose can be, they aim at going to Hanoi in Laos, what the Viet Cong have been doing to us in South Vietnam.

Nixon's men are attempting to perfect the organization of a tribal underground (begun years ago) under the feet of Hanoi's troops in Laos, thus cutting the underpinnings of that North Vietnamese base.

The job is made easier because a strong antagonism has developed between many of the tribesmen and the North Vietnamese along racial lines.

A former political officer of the North Vietnamese forces, responsible for working with the Lao, complained bitterly to this reporter he was finding it more and more difficult to get co-operation.

Now in this it is not necessary to win the territory from the North Vietnamese. It is only necessary for Hanoi's armies to feel insecure in the territories they hold. They will then be in the same position as American troops in South Vietnam a year or so back. They would hold the roads and could move anywhere under military escort, but never have control of what they occupied.

If we are successful in these attempts we will be hitting at the very heart of the North Vietnamese war in South Vietnam.

One tenet of guerrilla war is that you must have secure bases.

The strength of the Communists in South Vietnam today is that they can lie low in Laos or Cambodia, build their strength and hide their time until a situation looks ripe, then strike out from their safe haven while the Americans and South Vietnamese must be guarding all points of an impossibly long, rugged border all the time—an untenable situation for us.

Without these safe havens, Communist abilities would be cut sharply.

The Cambodian program (while quite different) has the same objectives—to make the North Vietnamese invaders quite uncomfortable and uncertain, thus making that country less usable as a base of operations against South Vietnam.

A second tenet of guerrilla war is that you must never allow a possible enemy to have a potential guerrilla base close to your own border, for then he can do to you what you have been doing to him. That is, he can use the territory to set up guerrilla operations in your homeland.

The men in Hanoi most certainly will be deeply disturbed (it is hoped here) if a strong underground develops in the territory they occupy in Laos. For obviously it could spread to North Vietnam. Hanoi couldn't be sure.

Tribal boundaries of the major Lao tribes stretch well into Hanoi's territories. The ancient tribal groupings don't follow modern political boundaries. Most of North Vietnam's hill tribesmen are members of the same clans that live in northern Laos. And it is known that many of North Vietnam's hill tribesmen are unhappy, though unable at present to do anything about their dissatisfaction.

No one here expects these worries to cause Ho's successors to give up their hope of winning South Vietnam. But Hanoi might decide to de-escalate (and possibly to negotiate) to get us out of the Saigon picture—which would give South Vietnam the breathing spell it so badly needs.

If Parents Don't Help The Children, Who Will?

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

For years knowledgeable researchers in the area of narcotics abuse have predicted (1) parents would one day suddenly discover their sons and daughters are involved; and (2) when they did, they would likely panic and take heavy-handed steps to stop the threat.

And now it has come to pass.

In recent months parental citizens' groups have organized across the nation. Stunned that Johnny is taking pot, confused because he seems to enjoy it, they have hastily demanded a series of solutions that range from giving regular urine (drug detection) tests in high schools to purging all psychedelic literature and staff sympathizers from the education system.

In Morris County, N.J., for example, where 800 drug arrests were made last year, an irate parent has proposed:

"Search the kids' lockers, give them saliva tests, escort them to and from lunch. Anything. We have a nightmare here—and we have to take some drastic steps to save these kids."

Such tactics, of course, will not work.

Dr. Robert Petersen is with the government's Center for Studies of Narcotics and Drug Abuse. Says he: "In the first place, saliva and urine tests won't work. In the second place, if parents think they are going to stop drugs simply by police-state methods, they may end up finding they are not only missing the problem, they are becoming part of the problem."

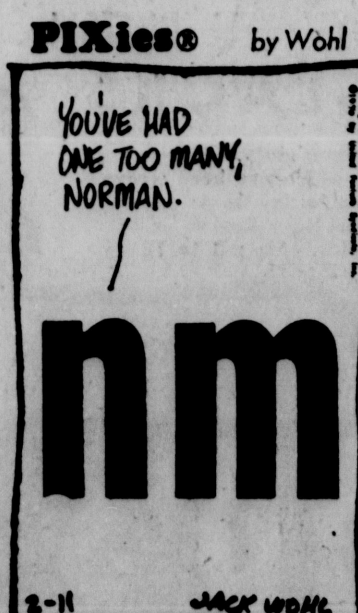

Petersen, whose agency distributes tons of narcotics literature to requesting organizations, says he is not opposed to the proliferation of parental groups concerned with youthful drug use.

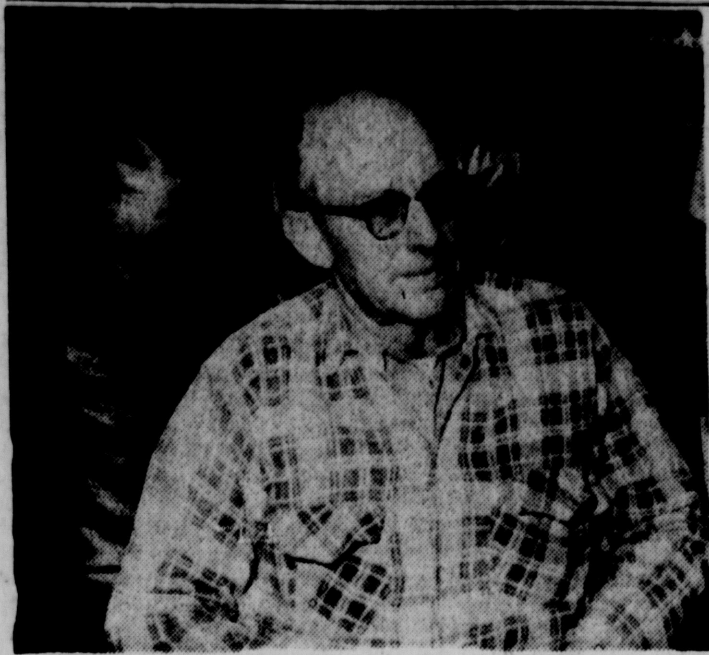

The first thing for such groups to realize, he says, is that "Kids aren't the only ones who like drugs. Big people do, too. Alcohol, cigarettes, sleeping pills—these things are taken by the majority of the population. We are, in fact, a drug-oriented society." The doctor suggests parent groups avoid these pitfalls:

Don't panic. Many kids try drugs, but few are addicted to them. The evidence is youngsters are not on the road to Sodom and Gomorrah. The drug worry is valid, but the researcher believes that tact and understanding are a far more valuable defense against addiction than an excited, wide-open mouth.

A void scare tactics. Petersen insists that kids know that "marijuana will not make them sterile, blind them, or send them to an early grave." So telling them so is counter-productive. The doctor believes parents must be well informed of the facts—well informed of the harmful effects of drugs—and should use "facts only" in discussions and dealings.

As House Elections Loom

GOP, Democrats Neck and Neck On Gallup Poll 'Issue Barometer'

By GEORGE GALLUP

Copyright, 1970, American Institute of Public Opinion. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 31—As political attention focuses on this fall's Congressional elections, the two parties are running virtually neck-and-neck in terms of which one the American people think can better deal with the nation's top problems.

Topping the list of problems named are the Vietnam war (cited by 33 per cent), the high cost of living (17 per cent), race relations (13 per cent) and crime (7 per cent).

When persons are asked which political party can better handle the problems named, the GOP emerges with 27 per cent of the vote, to 25 per cent for the Democrats. The largest single group of adults (39 per cent) say there is "no difference" between the two parties, while an other 9 per cent do not have an opinion. The large uncommitted group poses a real challenge for both major parties.

This question approach—letting voters themselves single out what they believe to be the top problem and the party they think can better deal with this problem—has proved to be a reliable indicator of political trends.

For instance, just prior to the 1958 Democratic Congressional landslide, the Democrats led the Republicans on this question by a large margin. In the presidential election of 1960, as another example, it will be recalled that Kennedy won one of the closest elections in history. Just before that election, the two political parties were nearly even on this question. Also, in 1962, 1964, 1966 and again in the 1968 Presidential election, this question proved to be a very accurate indicator.

All persons interviewed (1507) were first asked what they considered to be the most important problem facing the country. Those who named a problem (98 per cent of the sample) were then asked:

Which political party do you think can do a better job of handling the problem you have just mentioned—the Republican party or the Democratic party?

Here are the public's answers to the two questions:

Most Important Problem?
Vietnam war	33%
High cost of living	17%
Race relations	13%
Crime	7%
Other international problems	6%
Drug-taking, addiction	5%
Poverty	5%
Teenage problems	4%
Air and water pollution	4%
Immorality, lack of religion	4%
Educational needs	2%
Citizen apathy	2%
Others	3%
No opinion	2%

* Table adds to more than 100% because of multiple answers.

Which Party Better Handle Top Problems?

Republican	27%
Democratic	25%
No difference	39%
No opinion	9%

Diplomacy often develops a strange situation who is trying to deceive whom and why? The recent communications from Moscow and Cairo to President Nixon raises an important question. There is a very ancient adage that those who live in glass houses should not throw red hot bricks. This maxim is of such ancient vintage that Soviet Russia possibly never heard of it. They Communist dictators in Moscow who are united in their hatred of the concepts and truths of freedom and prefer to have have their own people and satellites crawl in the darkness of slavery, rather than to stand upright in the light of freedom, had the arrogance to issue a public ultimatum to the American people demanding that they cease and desist in sending any armaments to defend the existence of the free State of Israel.

These Godless masters of Soviet Communism who for seven years have furnished vast quantities of arms and munitions to kill 40,000 young Americans, and to wound a quarter of a million, seem to think that we should totally ignore this bloody record and continue to appease these killers of our sons.

Soviet Russia which has for years been filling the armories of all the one party Socialist, totalitarian Arab Governments—equivalent to Communism and enemies of freedom, now hurls this absurd, boomerang armament ultimatum out of their glass house factory of world armaments continuously working night and day to send more arms to Vietnam and to the Arab nations. This untenable and insulting note considering the source, should be answered with those honorable and understandable American words, billions of defense, but not one cent for appeasement of freedom or tribute to any nation.

President Nixon in his television address of November 3, 1969 said, "The defense of freedom is everybody's business. The wheel of destiny has turned so that any hope the world has for the survival of peace and freedom, will be determined by whether the American people have the moral stamina and courage to meet the challenge of free world leadership."

Editor, The Freeman:

Two years ago, at the insistence of many citizens of the Rondout Valley School District, its Board of Education modernized voting procedures by installing permanent voter registration, by instituting the use of voting machines, and by forth holding the voting the day following the presentation of the budget at the Annual Meeting.

These reforms resulted in a substantial increase in voter turnout and interest. In the writer's opinion, however, there are loose ends for the Board to tidy up in order to comply with the law and to prevent potential disturbances.

At-Large Voting

Voting in the Rondout Valley School District is on an at-large basis, both for the budget and candidates for trustee positions. Despite the fact a voter is legally entitled to vote using any machine on premises, the Board has failed to inform the electorate of these rights and in actual practice, arranges registration tables and machines in such fashion that Marlborough voters can vote on the "Marlborough machines" only. Rosendale residents only on the "Rosendale machines," and similarly for the residents of the Towns of Rochester and Wawarsing.

This is contrary to the law, as it provides information as to how the voters in each township voted. Nobody, Board members included, is entitled to such information . . . and such information should not exist. The solution is simple: Cover the topic in a Newsletter and post signs at the polling places. "REGISTER, THEN VOTE AT ANY MACHINE."

Loitering at Polling Place

Loitering by unauthorized persons at the polling places these past two years is an observed fact, as is the knowledge those so engaged in electioneering have been people favoring passage of the budget. Ugly situations could develop by persons opposed to the budget also loitering on the premises. It is not inconceivable that someday a riot will develop because of high feelings. Present Board laxity condones such an atmosphere. One should enter, register, vote and leave immediately, including the Superintendent, Board members, teachers, administrative staff, representatives of taxpayer groups and plain citizens. Now is the time to establish policy safeguards before troubles occur.

Answering Voter Questions

It has been Board practice to assign one or more people to answer questions, at the polling place, of people seeking interpretive information about the budget, amendments, and the like. No facility or opportunity has been provided for those with contrary views on voting day, after many local meetings on the budget, a Newsletter, and the Annual Meeting . . . that no question should be answered by someone appointed for this function. Some consider this electioneering, as those appointed so far have a vested interest in the school system. This, too, might get out of hand if hotheads become protagonists.

The solution is obvious. Any voter who fails to understand some aspect of the ballot by the time of and on voting day does not deserve an answer.

Answer no questions and the Board can steer clear of involvement in controversy.

I trust the Board will address itself to the matters raised herein. The days of the paper ballot and unsupervised registration are gone. Now let's clean house and run a voting system that can withstand challenge and scrutiny from any quarter. The reward is voter confidence in the Board of Education. It will need it to pass the next budget.

Sincerely,
DONALD G. ROSS

The Cause of Israel

194 Wall St.
Kingston, N. Y.
Jan. 30, 1970

Editor, The Freeman:

In the Jan. 28th edition of your paper, in this column, a letter was printed from Hamilton Fish, stating his feelings on the Israel Arab Middle East conflict; and I should like to say how much I agree with him.

What Mr. Fish, I think, had tried to stress was that Israel is a free state, and its only wishes are for it to remain as such. But with a military power such as the Soviet Union supplying arms to the Arab nations, how possibly could Israel survive without the help of another military power helping her. So, obviously, the only real power able to help is the United States.

If I may try to rephrase the word of Mr. Fish, "Israel is not asking for men or for volunteers, but only for the right to buy armaments to defend her independence and security" until just peace terms can be settled upon.

Although not a Jew, I support and respect the cause of Israel, and if the power of the Presidency were in my hands I would most assuredly support Israel to the fullest. For I understand that to be free, and to possess the luxury of independence, one must march forward to fight for the evils of Communism, and in this case, the complete collapse of a country due to sheer differences of a nationality and religious conflict.

Sincerely,
RICHARD PARADIES

that "something could happen

Thomas Hayden said damage costs are down "a significant amount" over two years ago, due to increased security ef-attacks on the district's four buildings have been "cut down substantially."Highland district clerk Robert Demerest reported that attacks on school property in that district are now down to "minor breakins." He noted that theelementary facility is located "right in town" and has been less hit than the high school, located in a more remote section of the district.

New Paltz district manager
Frank Hamilton noted that damage is costing the district about $200 to $300 so far this year calling that figure low and down from last year. Citing a 1969, rash of destroyed thermostats in the high school,
Hamilton said some 25 of the heat controls were damaged.
This compares with three so far this year. Glass breakage remains a problem, he said,
"we have been very, very fortunate."Vandals Hit

CAREN'S NEW CAREER—Mrs. Ellen Willburn of Providence, R. I., steps out with confidence accompanied by her Guiding Eye dog Caren. The long-haired German Shepherd received her initial training here in Kingston, thanks to the Joseph Fay family of 106 Greenkill Avenue. Puppy raised as part of a 4-H project, the dog went on to further training at Guiding Eyes for the Blind, Yorktown Heights before being assigned to her new owner.

Guiding Eye Dog Means Whole New Life

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON It is a new life, like coming out of mourning. This is what Caren, a long-haired German Shepherd guiding eye dog means to Mrs. Ellen Willburn of Providence, R.I. What Caren means to the Kingston family who puppy raised her for life as a guide dog is very hard to put into words.

The Joseph Fay family of 106 Greenkill Avenue met her very casually as a four-month old pup, raised and trained her under the 4-H program of Guiding Eyes for the Blind, Yorktown Heights before being assigned to her new owner.

lover's heartbreak of parting 14 months later when she was ready for advanced training at Yorktown Heights. Now that Caren has become the "new life" for Mrs. Willburn, they are gratified at the results and heart break of initial parting is forgotten in their pride of Caren's achievement.

It all started when Fay volunteered to "just help out" with the 4-H dog training program. He and his wife Joan began with 14-year-old Joe and 12-year-old Kim joining in the too.

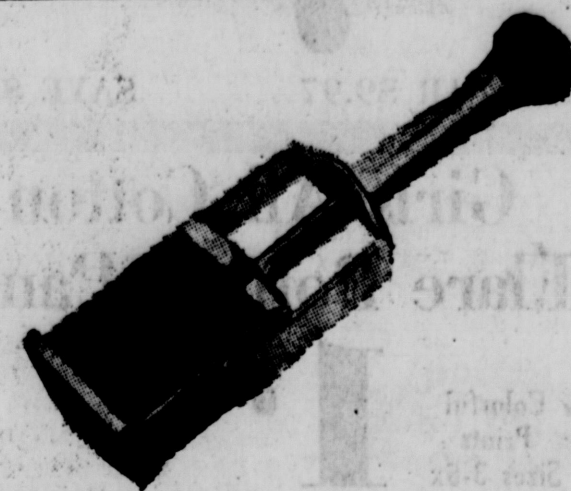

When it came time to part with the sweet, gentle Caren Just before Halloween in 1968, the whole family cried. It was at about this point that Ginger Caren was assigned to the Providence Hospital is looking forward to November of last year. In Mrs. Willburn's letters the growing love is quite evident as she recounts her experiences with her companion. Caren even went to carol service with the family during the holidays although, Mrs. Willburn notes that the dog did not join in the singing, "but listens well."

She complimented the Fays on Caren's early training which makes her such a good companion now. "I will ever be grateful for your part in making it possible for me to have this wonderful dog," she wrote.

Prendergast-Freese Nuptials

Miss Marilyn Prendergast, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Prendergast of 184 Bayard Street, Port Ewen, exchanged nuptial vows with James T. Freese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Freese of Carroll Avenue, Tillson, Saturday, Feb. 7 at Presentation Church in Port Ewen.

The Rev. Joseph Irwin of St. Mary's Church in Mt. Vernon officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Michael Prendergast, brother of the bride, served as altar boy. Mrs. Robert Corcoran, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

Arrangements of chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the altar and white satin bows and chrysanthemums marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a street-length gown in the Althea styling, made of white satin with bell sleeves of Chantilly lace. A white satin bow covered with Chantilly lace held her scalloped illusion veil and she carried a Colonial bouquet of white daisies and stephanotis.

Miss Mary Ann Prendergast of Port Ewen was maid of honor for her sister in a street-length gown of mint green satin and Chantilly lace, styled similarly to that of the bride. A satin bow covered with Chantilly lace held her veil and she carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow daisies.

Both gowns and headpieces were made by the bride's mother.

Michael Arace of West Chestnut Street, Kingston, served as best man.

A reception for members of the immediate family was held at the home of the bride's parents.

For her wedding trip to New England states, the bride selected a navy suit with matching coat, white crepe blouse, navy accessories, and a corsage of white baby roses.

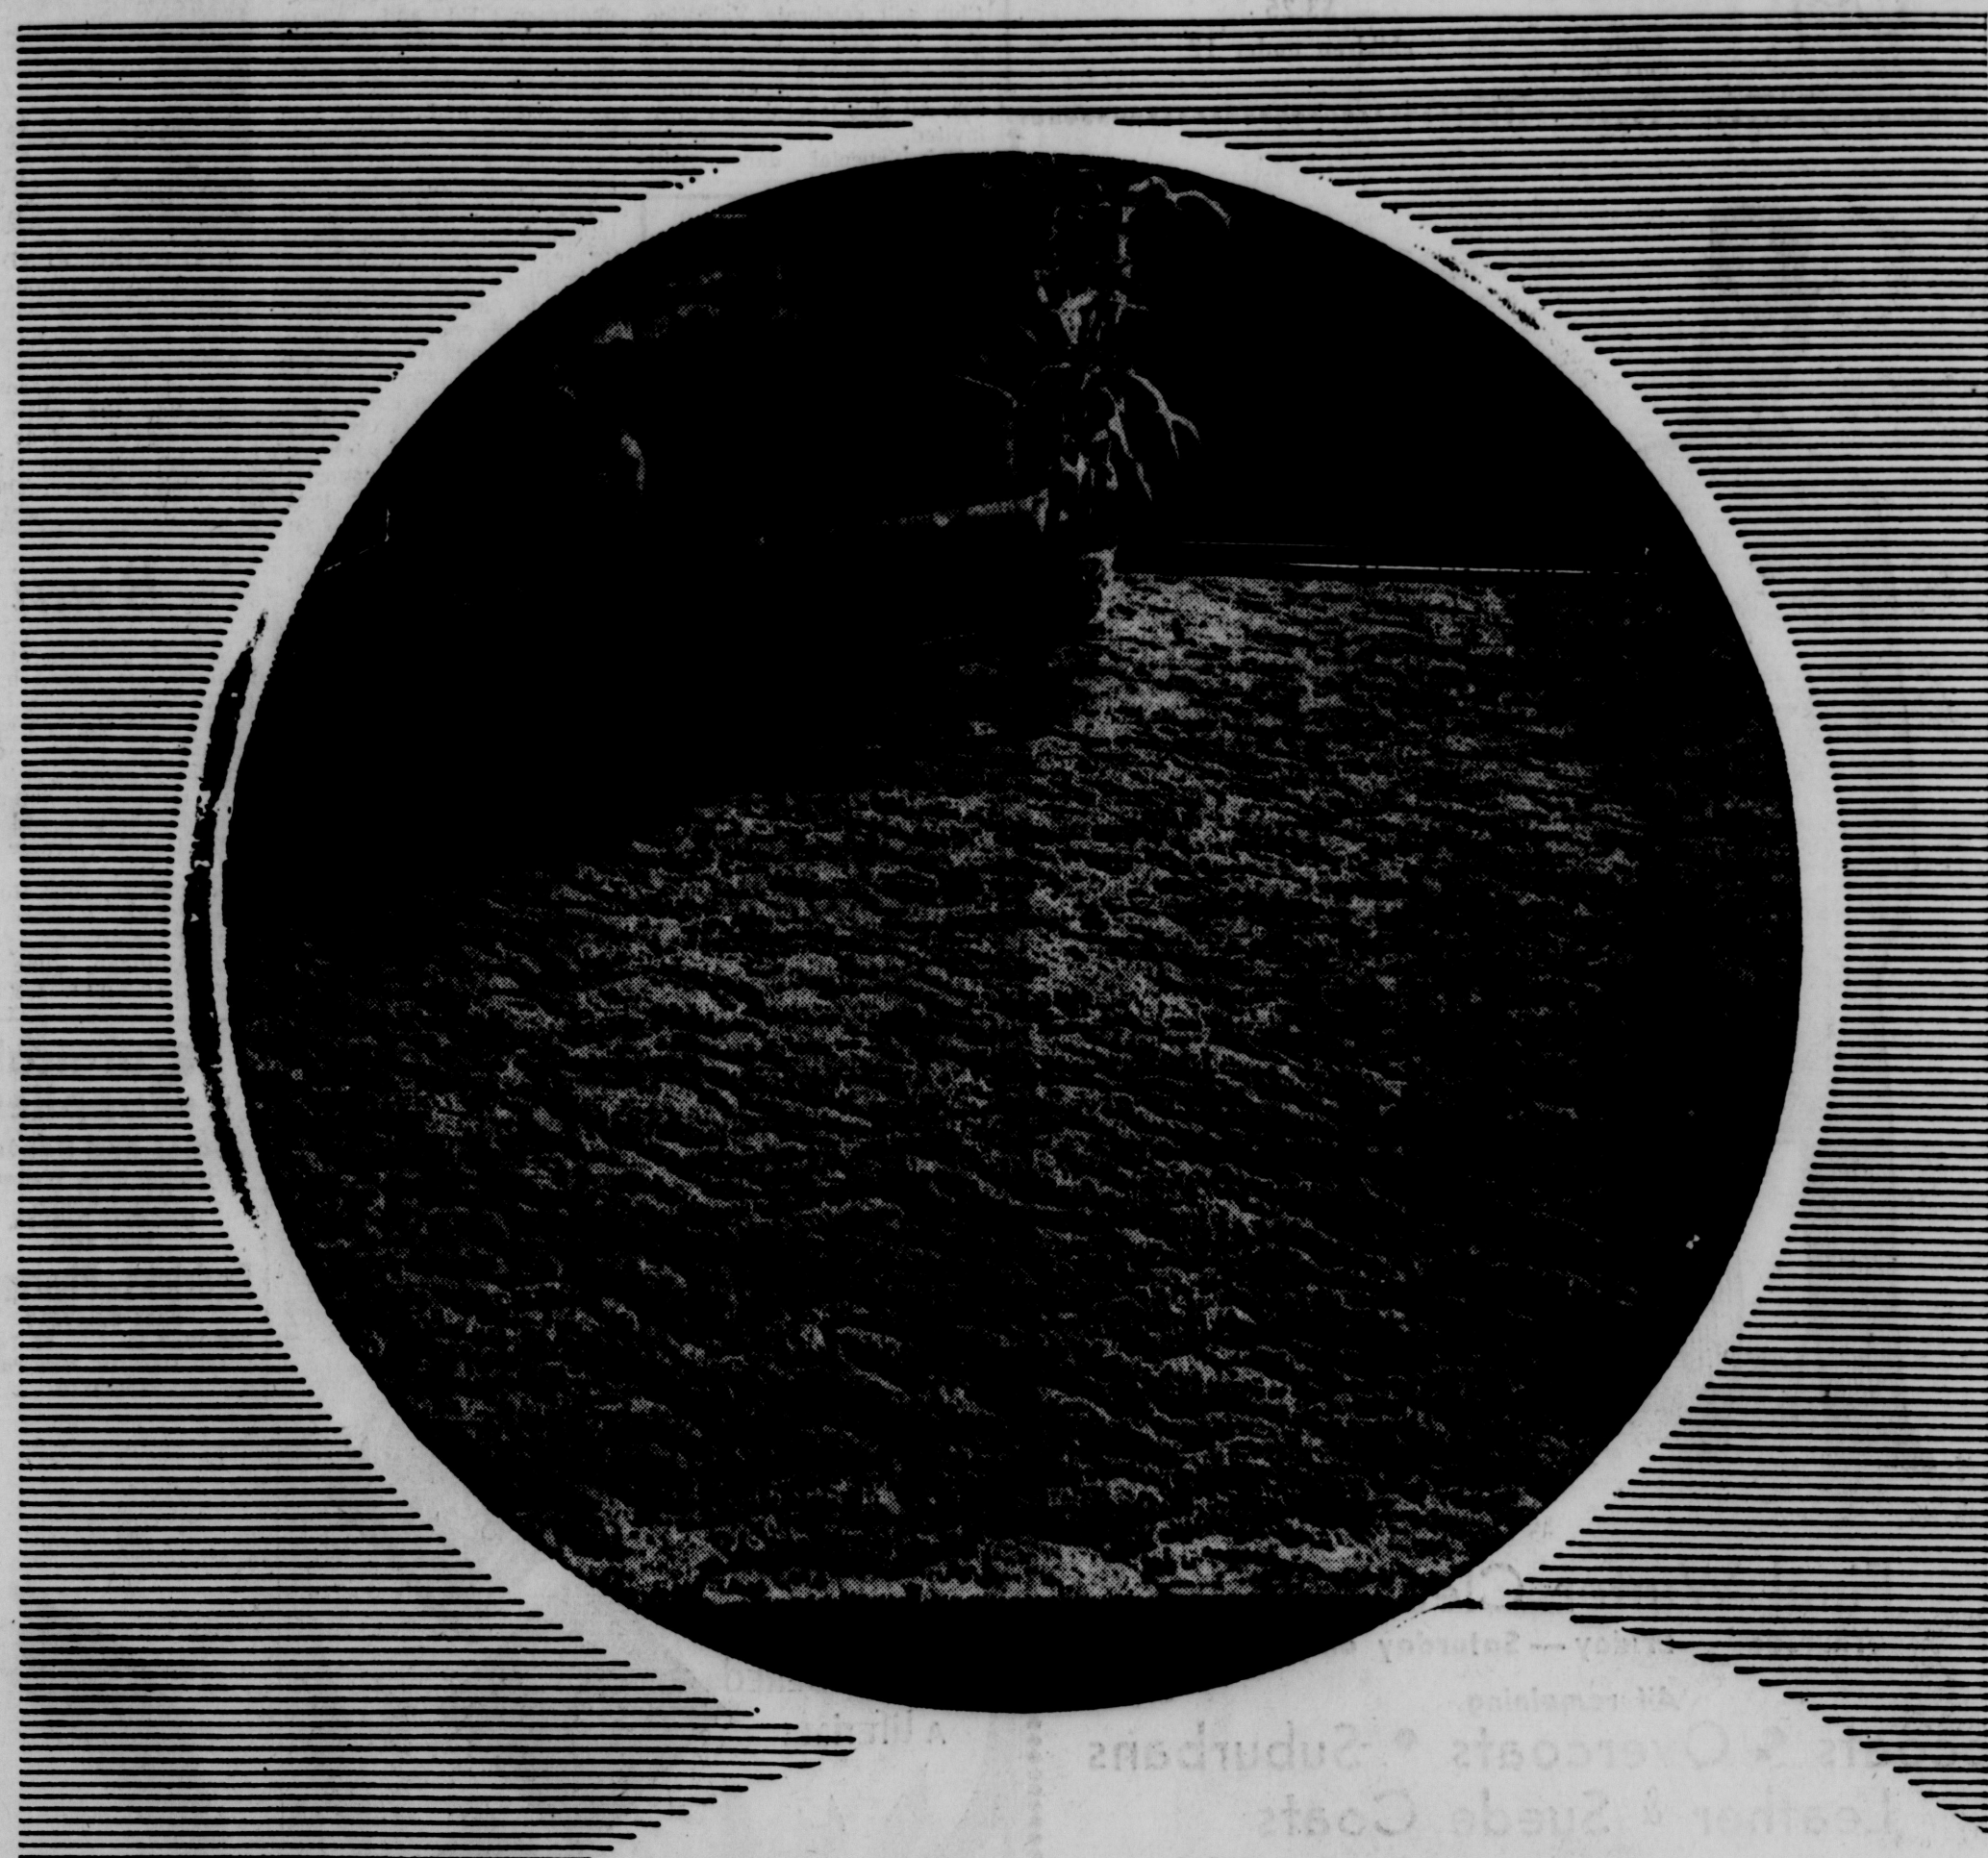

The bride, a graduate of Academy of St. Ursula, attended Ulster County Community College and is employed by New York Telephone Company.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College, is a veteran of U.S. Army, having served from 1965 to '68 with First Infantry Division, Vietnam. He is employed by Vermont State

Valentine Dance Friday

The "Fearless" Lefooters' Western Style Square Dance Club will celebrate Valentine Day on Friday the 13th at 8:30 p.m. at Hurley Reformed Church Hall, just off Route 209. All club level dancers are invited.

This special dance will include special refreshments executed by hospitality chairmen, Ed and Verna Stevens of Lake Katrine; decorations designed by newly appointed decoration chairmen, Dave and Sylvia Van Etten of Kingston; and a new round dance taught at 8 p.m. by club caller, Don Blair.

The date being Friday the 13th also gives an opportunity for fearless dancers to earn their Black Cat badge. This badge is earned by dancers courageous enough to defy superstition and dance one tip in a dark hall illuminated by only one candle on Friday the 13th. The lack of visibility insures plenty of chaos, calamity, and comedy. Fearful club members that miss this opportunity for a Black Cat badge will have another chance to be brave in March on Friday the 13th.

The Story Of Dollars For Heart

KINGSTON
Heart research is being brought into the homes of Ulster, Columbia and Greene counties through the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, which is telling residents during Heart Fund Month "what your heart fund dollars do."

For example, the association mails at least six publications a year to nurses and doctors in the area detailing the latest findings in heart research and care. Pamphlets too on all phases of cardiovascular diseases are distributed to doctor's offices and hospitals, free to patients.

The Mid-Hudson Heart Association carries on a Rheumatic Fever Control Program in Ulster and Greene counties in which all rheumatic fever patients may obtain penicillin at low cost.

Films and doctor speakers are available to various clubs and organizations on request. A Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation Program, complete with training aids, a speaker and slides, is made available to rescue squads and fire departments upon request.

A yearly seminar for nurses engaged in coronary care is sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association. A substantial contribution was made to the new Cardiac Diagnostic Unit at Kingston Hospital under the supervision of Dr. Edmund Reppert, available to doctors in the three counties. The unit contains the newest and most advanced type of equipment available for the testing of heart patients.

The Mid-Hudson Heart Association was the first heart chapter in the State of New York to initiate the Heart Sounds Screening Program, a program designed to test school children in the second and fifth grades for the purpose of determining hitherto undetected heart defects.

In the 25 states in which the program has been carried on, there has been an average of five to six children per thousand who were found to have heart defects that had not been disclosed previously.

The Heart Sounds Screening Program centers about the use of a machine called a PhonocardiScan. A highly sophisticated electronically implemented device, it was developed by doctors and has proved to be extraordinarily accurate in pinpointing heart murmurs outside of normal limits. The program entails further testing by the family doctors of children who are found to have such murmurs.

The program has not yet been concluded in Greene County and when it is, it is expected that it will get underway in Columbia County in April. In Ulster County, it is expected to start some time in the fall of 1970.

In addition, 22 per cent of all gross heart funds collected by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association are allocated to the American Heart Association for research and grants to three research doctors in New York State.

Family Service Role Detailed

KINGSTON

The role of a Family Service agency was detailed by the guest speaker at the recent annual meeting of the Children's Home of Kingston at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The guest speaker was Clark Blackburn, general director of the Family Service Association of America, which represents 340 family agencies throughout the country. In his presentation Blackburn discussed the stresses placed on the family in modern society, and emphasized his belief that the primary function of the Family Service Agency is to strengthen the family as one of our primary social institutions. He saw the role of the family agency as an advocate of those programs designed to enhance family living.

In Ulster County the Family Service Center at 26 Grove Street is organized under the sponsorship of the board of directors of the Children's Home of Kingston and is supported in part by the Ulster County Community Chest.

The motto of the Family Service Center, the 14th agency in the Community Chest, is "to Strengthen and Protect Family Life." The service offers case-work counseling to persons and families who are experiencing difficulties in their family relationships and for other aspects of their social functioning. These persons are given individual attention by a professional caseworker who can help them decide the course of action best suited to their particular problem.

Paul Treanor, CSW, director of the Family Service Center, which was established as a direct result of the Citizen's Survey report of a few years ago, indicated in his annual report that 158 families in Ulster County had been served in the first year of the agency's operation, and the predominant service offered was in terms of marital counseling.

Further information concerning the Family Service Center can be obtained by calling the Center or by contacting the staff at the Children's Home.

Three Unsolved Murders Keep Authorities Busy

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
 ● Robert D. Gallo, 23, of East Kingston, was found dead of gunshot wounds on Oct. 20, 1968.
 ● Patricia Dee Holtz, 24, of Illinois, was discovered murdered in Dutchess County on Jan. 27.
 ● The bullet-riddled body of an unidentified man was found gambling had been ruled out, along with a possible motive of robbery. The possibility that Gallo may have surprised a person or persons involved in an illicit act before he met his death, has not been discounted by authorities.

 Gallo's hunting cap, stained with blood, was carefully checked for possible fingerprints during the inquiry.
 The question still lingers in Teelon and Investigator Fred Grunewald were in New York City recently working with other Troop F investigators and the New York City Police seeking clues. The investigation in that area has not been concluded. Fingerprints of the man examined in Albany and Washington failed to aid in identification. The search probably will extend to foreign shores, an investigator said. "Right now, we have nothing definite to go on," he added.

HUNTING CAP FOUND IN UNDERBRUSH NEAR GALLO MURDER SCENE

Special

in a Town of Saugerties ravine on Feb. 1.

These three recent slayings are still unsolved despite the untiring coordinated efforts of top-ranking State Police officers from Troops F and K.

The motives for the three murders have not been established. The murderers are still at large.

The unidentified man probably was the victim of a gang-slaying, authorities admit. The clothing he wore—pajamas under his other clothes—could indicate that he was forced to hurriedly dress by his killers and later dumped where the frozen body was found.

State Police investigators say the search for possible clues in the deaths of the unidentified man and the Illinois woman has extended to distant points, Chicago, Indianapolis, New York City.

Senior BCI Investigators Charles Teelon and Edward Shannon of Lake Katrine, has been working with other key officials from Troop F headquarters, seeking to get a break in the case of Gallo and the unidentified man.

Investigate Woman's Death
 Captain Richard Boland and Lt. Richard Odell of Troop K headquarters have been directing the probe of the woman's death.

Days and days of field work have been spent by investigators in all three cases, but as yet no concrete evidence has turned up that would lead to a solution of either of the slayings.

In Gallo's case authorities have the clothing he wore on the Sunday afternoon when he was shot under the right arm, then pummeled, probably with the butt of a gun or some other blunt instrument, before two shots were sent through his body at close range.

Troopers also found $64 in the victim's trousers pocket. They also have in their possession a shotgun which is said to be identical with the one Gallo had on his hunting trip at the time he was killed. The gun was found in an East Kingston building. The man's ammunition belt and wallet never were found.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser ruled after an autopsy that Gallo's death was due to brain lacerations caused by gunshot and a fractured skull. The coroner's verdict was homicide.

Investigators said that involvement in narcotics or the minds of area residents: "Who killed Gallo?"

Meanwhile, state police officials at Hawthorne said yesterday they are awaiting replies in "requests" sent to authorities in Illinois and Indiana seeking clues in the Dutchess County homicide. The Holtz woman formerly lived in Chicago suburbs and Indianapolis.

Late in 1969, authorities said, the woman had been staying in the Chicago area, and efforts are being made to trace her travels from there to Dutchess County where a highway worker found her frozen, fully clothed body partially covered with a gold colored, circular shaped bedspread underneath a Town of North East bridge.

Captain Boland noted that an autopsy on the woman's body showed that she died of internal hemorrhages resulting from a stab wound of the abdomen. Other wounds were noted. When found she was "frozen stiff" and that condition delayed the examination by Dutchess County Medical Examiner Michael Badeen of Millerton.

Examination of the ground in the area where the body was discovered indicated that whoever was responsible for the woman's death, had rolled the body down an embankment before trying to conceal it with the bedding.

Authorities said positive identification of the victim had been made by her father who went to Dutchess county from his Illinois home.

International Probe
 BCI officials of Kingston emphasized that the investigation of the murder of the unidentified man found by two children at the foot of a steep embankment in a ravine off Plattelove Mountain Road in the Town of Saugerties, has developed into an international probe.

Investigator Teelon recently returned from Arlington, W. Va., where he went to question persons involved there in a case similar to the local one. Authorities are still working on that angle in search for clues that might lead to identification of the man and possible arrests.

Authorities concur in the possibility that the victim might have been mixed up in a gang, and they agree that the location of the four bullet holes in the back of the victim's head, indicated a gang-slaying. Investigators theorized the killing took place elsewhere and the spot in Saugerties was selected to dump the body.

Drunken Drivers ... State Arrests Up

ALBANY

Superintendent of State Police William E. Kirwan has reported in a wrapup of 1969 traffic activity that troopers arrested drunken drivers in greater numbers last year than ever before, noting that the tally came up 7,096, up 44.8 per cent.

In 1968, 4,899 were tabbed by troopers for drunken driving, an increase of 103.6 per cent over the 3,486 driving arrests in 1967.

"This significance of gains in arrests," Kirwan said, "is not in the numbers but in terms of the lives that may have been saved by the removal of impaired drivers from the highway."

Of the 1969 drinking driver arrests, 1,031 refused to submit to any test. This was 14.5 per cent of the 7,096 total. The ratio of refusals in 1968 was 19.8 per cent and in 1967, 27.8 per cent.

Those refusing tests are subject to revocation of their license.

Kirwan's report noted that the factor of alcohol in highway safety was indicated by studies of 714 fatal accidents claiming 855 lives that were investigated by troopers last year. Of persons involved in fatal accidents, chemical tests were given to 258 dead drivers, 35 dead pedestrians, 66 dead passengers and 38 surviving drivers charged with drunken driving.

Of the 331 drivers and pedestrians tested with chemical, 66 per cent had blood alcohol levels of .06 per cent or higher, 52 per cent had levels of .10 per cent or more and 35 per cent had readings of at least .15 per cent. Studies have established that levels of .06 per cent or more can adversely affect ability to drive. Kirwan noted in his report. Under New York law, a level between .10 to .15 per cent is prima facie evidence of impairment, a level of .15 per cent or higher is similar evidence of intoxication.

The superintendent also cited these yearly summaries: traffic arrests totaled 575,890, including 248,363 for speeding compared with 561,111 arrests, including 251,663 speeders in 1968. Speeding arrests by radar totaled 163,263, down 8,615 from the preceding year.

Accidents investigated jumped 9.6 per cent, from 44,710 to 48,993 and resulted in 24,684 arrests. Personal injury accidents were up nearly 5 per cent, from 15,577 in 1968 to 16,329.

In the course of nearly 60,000 checks of the quality of inspections at 10,946 licensed inspection stations, 453 arrests were made for failure to perform adequate inspections.

In the course of 2,296 road checks conducted by State Police, 434,498 vehicles were inspected, resulting in 37,369 charges ranging from inadequate equipment to license violations. In addition, 182 persons were arrested at these checkpoints on criminal counts, including 61 found in possession of drugs.

Several Americans Involved

2 Swiss Bankers Accused of $Multimillion Swindle

By JEAN HELLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal authorities have evidence that two Swiss bankers—fully aware that they were accomplices in a fraud—supplied hundreds of false documents from a string of shadow companies which became the backbone of a multimillion-dollar swindle of the U.S. government.

With the aid of the bankers, the evidence shows, a group of Americans was able to channel more than $4 million into secret Swiss bank accounts before the fraud was exposed and stopped. The Americans, who pleaded guilty to their parts in the fraud, were scheduled for sentencing Tuesday in U.S. District Court here.

They are Francis N. Rosenbaum, a prominent Washington attorney; Andrew L. Stone, a wealthy St. Louis businessman; Evelyn Price of St. Louis, Stone's executive secretary; Robert B. Bregman, president of Bregman Electronics, Inc., of New York; the Chromcraft Corp., of St. Louis and Alcoa Inc., of Akron, Ohio.

The fraud has received much publicity but the evidence detailing the role of the Swiss bankers has remained in government files.

The case, officials said, is just one example of the hundreds of frauds and tax evasions believed carried out each year with the knowledge and aid of discreet foreign bankers.

Simplified, the case worked this way: Stone and Rosenbaum were officers of a company which was the prime contractor on millions of dollars in Navy defense business.

They set up two dummy companies in the United States and fraudulently represented them as subcontractors on the Navy work. The Swiss bankers supplied those subcontractors with fraudulent bills from other dummy European firms for materials which were never ordered or shipped. The dummy subcontractors then "sold" the nonexistent material to the prime contractor who charged the Navy for it.

In paying off the phony Swiss bills, Stone and Rosenbaum were able to siphon the fraudulent overcharges obtained on the defense contracts out of the country.

The money went to the Swiss bankers who routed it into the Americans' secret accounts in Switzerland.

Government officials here say estimating the number of dollars fraudulently channeled into foreign bank accounts each year "defies imagination," but certainly runs into the hundreds of millions.

They say they find it almost impossible to break up such schemes unless someone on the inside cooperates.

The Navy fraud case was broken by Asst. U.S. Atty. Seymour Glanzer, chief of the Frauds Prosecutions Unit of the U.S. Attorney's office here. He was able, through court action, to force Swiss banks to open their books and files.

A 30-count indictment was returned in August, 1968, against the six defendants involved in the case. Stone and Rosenbaum pleaded guilty last October to nine counts each and the other defendants to one count each.

The indictment named as co-conspirators Hans Senn, an officer and director of the Bank Fur Handel und Effekten, that bank and Walter A. Lips, vice director of the Union Bank of Switzerland branch at Aarau, Switzerland. Lips has since left the Union Bank and opened his own finance and business advisory service. Senn still is employed by the Bank Fur Handel.

Swiss authorities say no charges have been filed against anyone there, but Justice Department sources here say evidence is being turned over to Swiss authorities at their request. Swiss officials refused to comment when asked if an investigation was under way.

Throughout the case, U.S. investigators say, Swiss bank officials seemed more interested in keeping their bank secrecy laws intact than in helping uncover this fraud.

When the American defendants pleaded guilty to parts of the federal indictment here, the other counts were dropped and the matter never came to trial. Therefore few details of the mechanics of the fraud became publicly known.

However, The Associated Press has now obtained documents from the case which federal investigators say is one of the biggest swindles of the United States government in its history.

Between February, 1962, and January, 1967, the Navy awarded more than $47 million in contracts for 2.75-inch rocket launchers for air-to-air ground missiles widely used in Vietnam.

The contracts were awarded on a sole-source basis, that is, to one company without competitive bidding. In the beginning, that company was Chromcraft, which billed itself as "The Distinguished Name in Dinette Furniture."

In June, 1966, Chromcraft and Alcoa merged, and the St. Louis rocket launcher operation changed its name to the Techfab Division of Alcoa. Nothing else changed, however, and the Navy continued awarding the contracts to Techfab. The fraudulent overcharging on the defense contracts continued.

Stone and Rosenbaum were the prime movers in the fraud. They created a dummy company in Beverly Hills, Calif., and called it Scientific Electronics, Ltd. The company was nothing more than a desk and a chair and piles of letterhead stationery. It never did any business with or for anyone.

Part way through the four-year fraud, Scientific was dropped and Rosenbaum and Stone replaced it with Bregman Electronics, another dummy company.

Scientific and Bregman were the American front companies for the fraud.

There were five more front companies in Europe: Geag; Elpag, A.G.; Alwatra, A.G.; Infina, A.G. and Establishment Macoba.

The Swiss bankers' complicity in the fraud can best be shown by following through one example transaction with the Americans.

Among the thousands of documents seized by the Justice Department in connection with the case was an invoice from Macoba, one of the dummy European companies, dated Dec. 1, 1964. It purported to show that Macoba had sold to Scientific Electronics three pieces of equipment at a total price of $10,565.

Three Chromcraft purchase forms, dated Dec. 7, 1964, showed that Chromcraft had ordered the same three pieces of equipment from Scientific Electronics. And there were three Scientific Electronics invoices dated Dec. 14, 1964, billing Chromcraft for the three pieces of equipment at a total cost of $11,000. But Macoba never shipped anything to Scientific Electronics and Scientific Electronics never shipped anything to Chromcraft.

What did happen was that Francis Rosenbaum wrote to Swiss banker Hans Senn requesting—not equipment—only bills for the three items. The fraudulent Macoba invoices were sent to Scientific Electronics from Europe and Scientific Electronics billed Chromcraft for the items—bills which Chromcraft represented to the Navy as legitimate costs.

Leon Schwartz, the president of Scientific Electronics, sent an air mail letter to Senn on Feb. 16, 1965. It listed 21 bills to Scientific Electronics from Macoba and Alwatra, including one for the three items, and said checks covering the bills were enclosed.

The letter to Swiss banker Senn said the checks, which were made out to Macoba and Alwatra, were to be "applied to your invoices."

The total of the checks referred to in the letter was $160,235.

Also included in the material seized by the Justice Department were invoices from Macoba to the second American dummy subcontractor, Bregman Electronics. Macoba's letterhead said the company was located in Vaduz, Liechtenstein.

But the envelopes neatly stapled to the bills to Bregman Electronics were postmarked Zurich, Switzerland, the home of Senn and the Bank Fur Handel.

By having fraudulent invoices from Europe sent to their two dummy American subcontractors, and by "paying" those bills, Stone and Rosenbaum were able to channel more than $2.2 million into secret Swiss accounts through Scientific Electronics and nearly $1.3 million through Bregman Electronics.

In addition, fraudulent invoices were sent from foreign companies to Western Molded Fibre Products Inc., of Gardena, Calif., a legitimate subcontractor for Chromcraft and Alcoa. Western Molded paid the bills although the materials listed on the invoices never were sent.

In that manner, Western Molded paid $663,481 in kickbacks to Stone and Rosenbaum. That money, too, was routed into their Swiss accounts.

The Navy suspended Alcoa as a qualified bidder on further contracts on April 4, 1967, early in the investigation. The company was reinstated in October, 1968, eight months after Stone sold his controlling interest. Rosenbaum resigned and the company came under new management.

660 Youths Head for Cuba, Will Harvest Sugar Cane

BOSTON (UPI)—More than 660 youths, including 400 gathered in Boston, headed for Canada today where they hope to board a small cattle freighter to go to Cuba to help harvest sugar cane.

The more than 400 in Boston planned to bus to St. John, N.B., to meet the other volunteers. There they will board the freighter Luis Arcos Bergon. The freighter, carrying 212 Americans returning from cutting sugar cane in Cuba, was due to dock today and leave for Cuba again Thursday. The volunteers will spend 2½ months in the sugar fields.

One group of the young men and women already has run into trouble. A busload of 44 claiming they were going skiing was held up at the Canadian border near Detroit Tuesday. Customs officials said they were "not bona fide nonimmigrants" or visitors, and turned them away. They were expected to try to enter Canada at another point, probably at Calais, Maine.

They did not have any skiing equipment on the bus, although the bus charter was made by the Skimasters' Club.

Greyhound headquarters in Chicago, where the bus was chartered, said the bus was one of five from across the country involved in the operation. Similar groups reportedly chartered 11 buses from at least one other company.

A Greyhound spokesman said the Federal Bureau of Investigation made "routine inquiries" when the bus was turned back by Windsor, Ont., authorities at the Detroit border stop passed through Cleveland Tuesday. The FBI in Washington, however, had no comment.

The Fifth Estate, an underground Detroit newspaper, said in its current edition the Cuban government would pay costs for Americans who want to go to Cuba to harvest sugar cane.

Delays Showdown Vote To Slow School Desegregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Nixon administration's top education official openly joining the fight, the Senate has put off until next week a showdown on a Southern-sponsored provision to slow school desegregation.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield obtained an agreement Tuesday for voting times on desegregation riders to a $35 billion education bill. Beginning next Tuesday, each amendment to the massive bill will carry a two-hour limit on debate.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., floor manager for the measure, said he expected Mansfield's move to clear the way for final passage by Feb. 19.

The main issue is an amendment by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., permitting freedom of choice plans in public school attendance. Federal courts have ruled such programs violate civil rights laws unless they are the best method of achieving school desegregation.

James E. Allen Jr., U.S. commissioner of education, injected himself by sending a letter to Pell opposing the Stennis proposal, making its already slim chance of approval even less likely.

Allen asserted the administration is strongly committed to nationwide elimination of racial segregation in education.

The Deep South senators have charged the administration with inaction in attacking segregation in schools outside the South.

Allen said that, "As an educator, I am convinced that segregation by races in our nation's schools for any reason is unsound educationally, regardless of geography."

Allen wrote that the administration opposed the Stennis amendment because it runs counter to Supreme Court decisions and "would seriously restrict the enforcement efforts" under Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

This provision requires cutoff of federal funds to local governments on programs where segregation is practiced.

A second Stennis proposal, likely to attract more support than his freedom of choice amendment, requires uniform enforcement of school desegregation policy throughout the U.S.

Allen said that "serious questions arise as to the legal effect and implications" of this amendment. He urged consideration by committees before a Senate vote is taken.

Negro Lassie, 19, Wins Pancake Derby

LIBERAL, Kan. (UPI)—who battled a slushy, wind-swept cobblestone course in record holder in the run-the-415-yard s while-flipping-your-pancake three-times-in-the-skillet-without-dropping-it-or-slipping-in-the-dip race.

In other words, Leggy Kathleen, 19, won the 21st annual International Shrove Tuesday Pancake Derby Tuesday.

The transatlantic event, overlooked in Olympic competition to these many years, is staged annually between the ladies of Liberal and the lassies of Olney, England.

Kathleen, the first Negro to win the race, came close to Pancake Derby fame in 1968 and 1969, only to stumble both times and drop her flapjack.

But she streaked by 20,000 sun-drenched spectators at high noon on the Kansas prairie Tuesday, sped around the 415-yard S-shaped course, flipped her cake the required three times, and crossed the finish line 59 seconds after noon. It was a record.

There was one anxious moment among the 59. It came near the finish line—at the small dip in the middle of the street where Kathleen stumbled last year.

"I began worrying about it about halfway through. It's right in the middle of the road almost at the finish line... I just ran around it. It wasn't really out of the way."

Her "racing cake," she said, "was just a regular old burnt pancake. They're all ready made. We just bring our own skillet, aprons and bonnets."

Her time was almost 12 seconds faster than defending champion Sylvia Winstanley.

Gina Threatens To Take Action Over Letters

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Actress Gina Lollobrigida said Tuesday her attorneys would take appropriate action if letters she allegedly wrote to Dr. Christian Barnard were included in a book reportedly planned by the surgeon's former wife.

The Italian actress said she had heard reports that Barnard's former wife intended to write the book and include letters she allegedly sent to the pioneer South African heart transplant surgeon.

Miss Lollobrigida, who is staying at this gambling resort, also confirmed that Barnard had proposed to her.

She said Barnard's former wife had said "she intended to write a book about her private life. And it seems that she wants to talk about me and some letters and Dr. Barnard. So that is why I am obliged to make this statement. Usually I don't like to talk about private matters."

"If there exists some letters and if they are published illegally—because they would be private—those responsible would be punished," she said.

Speaking about Barnard's proposal, Miss Lollobrigida said, "some time ago, when I already had been divorced, Professor Barnard asked me to marry him, telling me that he intended for some time past to ask for a divorce."

"After thinking about it, I decided to say no." She made the statement to the Italian news agency ANSA and later confirmed it here.

Members of the Capital District Retirees Unit of Civil Service Employees Association will vote for permanent officers of the unit at a 10 a.m. meeting Feb. 18 at CSEA headquarters, 33 Elk Street, Albany, according to Dr. Albert H. Harris, chairman of the unit.

All retired CSEA members and unit members are urged to attend and bring a retired friend.

Editors Vote For Protected Source Laws

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—The New York State Society of Newspaper Editors approved a resolution Tuesday "strongly endorsing" new legislation to protect reporters from divulging their sources of information.

The resolution did not take a position, however, on a measure introduced in the state legislature Monday that would prohibit reporters who refuse to divulge their sources from being cited for contempt of court.

Instead, a spokesman for the newspaper executives' group said the society merely endorsed the "general" need for such legislation in reaction to attempts by federal and state prosecutors to subpoena reporters' notes for grand jury hearings and court cases.

The resolution was adopted at the end of the association's two-day winter meeting here.

The bill introduced in the legislature was backed by the New York Reporters Association, the New York State Publishers Association and the New York State Press Association.

Residents of the town will be heard whether in favor or against the proposal. Supervisor George Schroeder and the Town Board will attend the hearing to be conducted by Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman Ed Davey.

Former Duchess of Argyle Dies at Grasmere Home

RHINEBECK, N.Y. (UPI)—Funeral services for Mrs. Louise C. Timpson, former duchess of Argyle, were expected to be arranged today following the arrival of her sons from Scotland and England.

Mrs. Timpson, 65, died Tuesday at her home, Grasmere, in this Dutchess County village, where she had lived since 1954.

A spokesman at Dapson's Funeral Home said her two sons by her marriage to the duke, the Marquess of Lorne, who is the heir to the dukedom, and Lord Colin Campbell were flying here, the marquess from Scotland and the other from London.

Mrs. Timpson, born in Paris on Nov. 27, 1904, was first married to Andrew Vanneck in 1922. That marriage, spent in England, ended in divorce three years later.

In 1933, she was married to Capt. Ian Campbell, who became the duke of Argyle in 1951. They were divorced in 1954.

The next year, she married Robert C. Livingston Timpson, an American investment banker, and they lived together at Grasmere until their divorce in 1963. Timpson now lives in South Africa, and the duke in Paris.

In addition to her sons, Mrs. Timpson is survived by a grandson, Her stepdaughter, daughter of the duke by a prior marriage formerly was married to author Norman Mailer and is now Mrs. John Kram.

Mrs. Timpson was charged with drunken driving charges in a 1963 accident in which five persons died, has begun serving a 90-day jail sentence in connection with a hit-run accident last month.

Judge Nicholas Tsoucalas Tuesday sentenced Martinis, married and the father of a 7-year-old child, after the 28-year-old son of Criminal Court Judge Joseph A. Martinis pleaded guilty to two of six charges brought against him following the Jan. 16 accident.

Martinis was freed of charges in the 1963 accident after three colleagues of his father had deliberated only five minutes.

Assistant Dist. Atty. William Holland of the Bronx agreed to let Martinis plead guilty to two of the six counts stemming from the latest accident which occurred only a few blocks from the 1963 incident.

Police said Martinis' car rammed into the rear of a taxi and then sped away. Two patrolmen in a radio car seized Martinis a block from the scene of the accident.

Report Dutches For Samuels

KINGSTON
United Press International reported today that Howard J. Samuels, a Democratic candidate for governor has received the endorsement of Democratic county committees or chairmen of 18 of the state's 62 counties including Dutchess.

Ulster County's Democratic Committee, which met Monday night, did not lend its endorsement to any gubernatorial candidate for the nomination, because, according to chairman Aaron E. Klein, the committee feels it is too early to make a commitment. "We have a number of impressive people in the race," he said.

Klein said he anticipates the matter will come under consideration at the committee's March meeting.

The announcement of Samuel's present endorsements was made at his New York City campaign headquarters. A statement by the 18 county leaders was released which said, "We have a candidate whose broad appeal upstate as well as downstate will make it possible for those Democrats in

Bruno Clicks With Larries

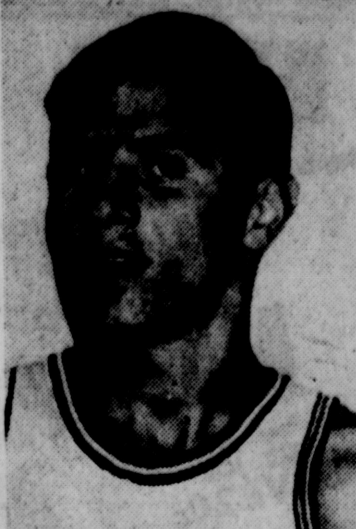

"He's come along nicely in the last four or five games and looks like a solid starting prospect for the 1970-71 varsity season."

This was St. Lawrence University freshman basketball coach, Bob Sheldon, talking about Gene Bruno, freshman forward from Kingston High School.

Bruno, who missed the first three games on the Larries schedule, has been a starter in the six other contests, scoring 73 points for a 12.1 average. His rebounding ability, 15 per game average, has impressed Coach Sheldon and other members of the St. Lawrence staff.

"Bruno is now one of our top players," said Coach Sheldon. "He is putting his game together nicely and we're definitely counting on him as a varsity starter next season."

Although the current St. Lawrence varsity is built around sophomores and juniors, Coach Sheldon said he thought Bruno would still make the big team next season.

GENE BRUNO

The St. Lawrence Frosh have won 7 and lost two games to date. It is rated one of the finest squads in recent Larrie history.

Boyle's Score In Overtime

KINGSTON Boyle's, sparked by the scoring and rebounding of Mel Williams, picked up a 56-55 overtime win, defeating Jack's in the Over-30 League. In the only other game, Bob Smith's 21 points paced Blue Gardenia to a 56-33 drubbing of the Celtics. Boyle's managed but one field goal on a shot by Williams in the extra period, but that was all they needed as Jack's could hit but one foul shot. Williams put the game into the overtime by hitting both ends of a 1-1 situation from the foul line. Chick Boice led all scorers as he hit 31 markers for Jack's. Tom Morrisay had 19 for the Celtics.

The scores: Blue Gardenia (56)—Smith 21, Taylor 15, Amato 6, Burris, Jackson, Chaffin, 4; Barkstie 2, Shorter 0, Celtics (33) — Morrisay 19, Kleine 6, Schuffe, Holstein 3, Madison 2, Lechner, Newt Madison, Orr 0. Boyle's (56) — Williams 14, Houghtaling 12, J. Ferraro 8, Price 12, Parker 6, D. Ferraro 3, Stoffler 1; Jack's (55)—Boice 31, Short 14, McCabe 6, Heine, Bertha 2, Sheridan, Carpusis 0.

Albany High Topples Kingston High, 86 to 74

By MORT LAFFIN

It was raining baskets at the Kate Walton Field House Tuesday night as host Kingston and the Rangers of Albany High locked horns in an offensive donnybrook that saw the visitors defeat the Maroons, 86-74. Both teams were outstanding from the field as Kingston hit 45 per cent of its shots and Albany, 51.

The Rangers, coached by Frank Restifo, are now 8-4. Kingston is 3-10. The Maroons host Port Jervis Friday night in a key DUSO battle that could go a long way in deciding second place.

Kingston's JV's were defeated in a close one, 67-61. Jim Ferraro was high man for the locals with 18 points.

While the score would seem to indicate that this was anything but a defensive battle, it would be amiss not to mention the defense played by both clubs. Blocked shots, goal-tending calls, near dunks and three technical fouls, two of them coming against Kingston Coach Mike Rienzo in the first three minutes of the game, gave the few hardy souls who braved the weather their money's worth and more.

In the end, it was the old story of turnovers hurting the locals as they had 28 to the visitors' 21. The score was tied twice in the tilt, with the Maroons coming from behind to do so on both occasions as the contest seesawed back and forth. But, the locals couldn't quite come up with that big play that would put them over the top.

Kingston started off cold in the first quarter and trailed 8-0 and 10-4 with 3:31 left in the period. However, Rocky Johnson, Vito Platts and Don Williams ran off an 11-8 spurt in the closing minutes to make the score, 18-15 at the end of the initial period.

The second quarter saw much of the same as the teams started out by trading baskets. Albany was in a full court press, but that didn't seem to effect the Maroons as Johnson, Jim Carroll and Platts kept bringing them back. The boys tied the score at 25-25 with five minutes left, fell behind by four and then tied it again, 29-29, with three minutes showing.

Jim Artis and Eli Willingham kept pouring on the coals for the visitors and it became apparent that tying the visitors was one thing getting ahead of them would be something else.

Albany led at the half, 43-35. In the third quarter, it was all Johnson and Carroll for Kingston. Time and again Carroll would get the defensive rebound, pitch the ball out and race down court to lead the fast break. Johnson hung in there, blocking shots and tipping in points, one of them a near-dunk. The Boxscore:

Coleman Drubs Catskill for 11th Win

Winning appears to have become a tradition, at least for this season, at John A. Coleman High. Last night, the Statesmen ran up their eleventh win against four losses by defeating visiting St. Patrick's of Catskill, 82-55. It was one of the top offensive shows of the season for the winners, who are bucking for a bid to a post-season tournament.

Craig Renn turned in the top job for the winners as he threw in 10 field goals and three foul shots for a game-high total of 23 points. Renn also pulled down 12 rebounds. This may not seem that spectacular a night, good but not great, until you realize that the strong forward sat out most of the second half with an injury.

Bill Curran helped off the boards, grabbing nine caroms and scoring nine points, while Pat Harder tossed in 12 markers and played an outstanding defensive game.

Chris Schess was also not to be denied as he too hit for 12 points.

big ones and also handed off of its game from the beginning as they outscored the visitors 25-8 in the first quarter and 25-14 in the second for a halftime edge of 50-22. Coach Bill DuBois began to clear his bench as his reserves played against the visitor's first stringers, but it didn't make any difference to the fired-up 10 points to round out the scoring for the winners.

Coleman was right at the top and hung in there. But, the visitors just couldn't recover to make a dent in the first-half burst by the winners. Paul Dolan was high man for the losers with 13 points. Bill Scheller tossed in 12. Bill Byrne 11 and Ed Schumacher 10 to round out the visitors scoring.

Koola's 35 Points Pace Rondout Win

Pete Koola, making a strong bid for Most Valuable Player honors in the Ulster County Athletic League, (The ALL-UCAL center position has just about been conceded to him) fired in 13 field goals and nine foul points, for a total of 35 points as his Rondout Valley quintet defeated Marlboro, 88-70 last night at the Joster's floor.

Koola's performance is the high-individual scoring effort for the season. Bill McAfee of Wallkill had the league's honor with a 30-pointer earlier this season.

The Ganders are now 14-1 on the season and 8-1 in UCAL play. There were to have been two other UCAL contests last night, but both were cancelled due to the inclement weather. Highland at Pine Bush, scheduled for last night, has been rescheduled tonight, starting at 7 p.m. Onteora at Wallkill, the other game on the schedule, was also cancelled and will be played tonight, starting with the JVs at 6:30 p.m.

Problems, Weather Curtail Schedules

By MORT LAFFIN

A school's internal problems and inclement weather forced the cancellations of three area high school basketball games and one wrestling match. The games are: Poughkeepsie at Saugerties, Onteora at Wallkill and Highland at Pine Bush. The wrestling match was Onteora at Saugerties.

The Onteora basketball game and wrestling match will be played tonight, the hoopssters traveling to Wallkill for a 6:30 p.m. JV start, while the Indian matmen will go to Saugerties for a 7 p.m. match. Highland will also reschedule for tonight at Pine Bush. Starting time will be 7 p.m.

The Poughkeepsie-Saugerties basketball game is quite another matter. Saugerties school officials are hoping that the game can be played by next Monday Poughkeepsie's Athletic Director, Ken Gearhardt, isn't too sure when, if ever, it will be played.

Poughkeepsie school teachers, particularly on the high school middle school level, are involved in a walk-out from classes that is going into its second week. The Teacher's Association, just to be brief, is protesting the disciplinary policies of the administration, calling them much too lenient. "Our coaches are members of the Association," said Gearhardt Tuesday. "And I don't have anyone around. We can't play the games without the proper supervision. I can't really say for sure when we will play again. It will depend on when the teachers decide to come back. We may have to forego our non-league commitments and just play our

ALBANY GLENS FALLS KINGSTON POUGHKEEPSIE

Pilot Story Pretty Grim

CHICAGO (UPI)—American League owners met again today in efforts to find a way to keep the Seattle Pilots in that West Coast city.

The owners reconvened 1½ hours before a joint major league meeting scheduled to open at 11 a.m. EST after caucuses met through the night. They had failed in nine votes taken during a special meeting Tuesday night to come up with a settlement that would keep the Pilots in Seattle. The situation was obviously very tight, League President Joe Cronin would not make a statement following the late night meeting and he brushed reporters aside as he headed for his hotel suite to begin individual meetings with interested groups.

His earlier optimism that the situation could be resolved before the joint major league meeting had dimmed. But it was clear the league wanted the Pilots to stay in Seattle. Cronin did confirm that one of the possible solutions suggested was a system whereby the league would become trustee of the franchise and operate the Pilots in Seattle in 1970 while looking for a buyer.

It was obvious that the owners had discussed and voted upon a number of ways to keep the team in Seattle. During a break in discussions earlier Tuesday Cronin had said, "The American League is leaning over backwards to keep baseball in Seattle. But there are many, many problems."

William Daley and Dewey Soriano, who holds the franchise, are willing to sell out to another Seattle group headed by Fred Danz. But the league owners refused to approve the financial arrangements proposed by the Danz group. Then another Seattle-based group, headed by hotel operator Edward Carlson, said it had sufficient funds to meet the $9.3 million price tag put on the Pilots by the league.

But certain nonprofit backers and limited partners in the Carlson financial scheme raised question among the owners and did not bring a vote of approval. The league appeared to doubt the long range financial responsibility of such an aggregate of backers.

Interests from Milwaukee, Wis., and Fort Worth, Tex., which have come forth as potential purchasers were standing by. At one point, Tuesday night, the Milwaukee interests were discussed but the Fort Worth offer did not come up.

St. Mary Juniors Score Fifth Win

Led by little Ben Raligh (4-8), St. Mary's of Kingston crushed St. Mary's of the Snow, 75-13, for fifth win in six CYO Jayvee League games. Raligh hit 16 points to pace Kingston. Kerry Baren hit 4 for the Snows.

St. Mary's, Kingston (75) — Timbrook 14, Raligh 16, W. Brooks 2, Vertetis 4, Coughlin 15, Miller 10, G. Brooks 11, Kahlsthor, Perry 3, Saugerties (13) — Baren 4, Schovel 3, Schnell 1, Quesnell 2, Carr 1, Smith 2.

BAG BOMBERS — Heavyweights Joe Frazier (L) and Jimmy Ellis (R) work out on the light bags at Felt Forum in Madison Square Garden, New York City, in preparation for their title bout Feb. 16 at the Garden. Ellis is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association, Frazier in New York and five other states. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Billy Kidd Charged A Little too Late

Kidd still is very much in contention for Alpine combined honors at the World Ski Championships, but a poor first run in the giant slalom Monday means he's got a lot of catching up to do if he is to win the gold medal.

He lies third behind two Frenchmen in the standings, although only one will probably start in the downhill.

Monday he was a miserable 30th after the first run, but Tuesday he hit back with a time of 2:05.50, eighth best of the day, to give him an overall 4:25.37 which left him 15th at the finish behind Austrian winner Karl Schranz.

The bends were so pronounced Monday that the field had to check before most gates, but Tuesday they had a smoother run. "I got so mad at having to break Monday that I ruined my performance," Kidd said, adding "but I'm still hoping I'll be out on until downhill course every day until Sunday so that I know everything there is to know about the track."

Interchangeables
DOTTY NACCARATO 500-182, Irene Russell 479-200. Team results: Bertha Gally Real Estate 3, Gene's Bar and Grill 0; Wayside 3, Tri-State Sod Co. 0; Mt. County Clothes 3, Moose 697 0.

The 26-year-old economic graduate from the University of Colorado said he was feeling "pretty fit" despite ankle and back injuries that have plagued him all season.

Kidd trails Patrick Russell, who beat him by 2-100ths of a second for the slalom silver medal, and Alain Penz in the combined standings.

Penz probably will not get to start because the French will put their top three downhillers into the race, leaving just one place open.

Russell and Kidd last faced each other in a downhill at the Swiss Lauberhorn Classic, where the Frenchman finished nearly a full second ahead. Rick Chaffee of Rutland, Vt. clocked 2:07.62 for the 19th best time of the day among the 93 starters to stand 19th overall in 4:27.07. Hank Kashiwa of Stowe, Vt. was caught in 2:09.41 for 28th and 4:29.95 which left him 30th, while Spider Sabich of Kyburz, Calif., finished one place ahead over Kashiwa in the overall standings before being disqualified for missing a gate.

Albany State Stops Paltz Hawks, 71-55

ALBANY Sheppard said Dane would probably be out for the remainder of the season. If Coach Doug Sheppard of the New Paltz State Hawks is humming the old spiritual, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen" these days, who can blame him.

He took his 3-14 squad into Albany Tuesday night, hoping for an upset over arch rival Albany State. Remember, the dramatic upset the Hawks engineered over the tournament-bound Albany squad late last season at New Paltz?

It didn't turn out that way here last night. Albany State ground out a 71-55 win, tagging the Hawks with their 15th setback of the season, but that was only the beginning of Coach Sheppard's woes.

Ten minutes into the first half, it was still a grueling 17-11 game with Albany leading and both teams, obviously tight and tense, missing shots all over the place.

Then came the crowning blow of a series of mishaps that has haunted the Hawks from the beginning of the season. Steve Dane, the new found scoring sensation, popped a knee and had to leave the game. Coach

Sheppard said Dane would probably be out for the remainder of the season.

Prior to this crushing blow, two of the team's top performers — Earl Thurner and Rich Gabriel — had left the squad for sundry reasons.

"This is a real tough blow," said Sheppard. "He was just coming into his own." The Hawk coach said he probably would move Oscar Kvelland into Dane's slot in the starting lineup.

Reinhard Hits 43 in CYO Game

Dan Reinhard set a new CYO scoring record for the season with 43 points, as Immaculate Conception trounced Sacred Heart, 96-52, in the CYO Senior league.

Rick Sorenson added 25 for the winners. Nick Southward paced Sacred Heart with 20. Immaculate Conception (96)—Reinhard 42, Sorenson 25, Tucker 8, Freese 7, Lemister 2, Post 11; Sacred Heart (52)—Huth 4, Prockup 16, Hammerl 10, Southward 20, Rodden 2.

It was just coincidental that Kvelland played his best all-round game of the season against Albany. He scored eight points but his overall stint impressed Coach Sheppard.

Bob Freer of Kingston led the Hawks with 14 points and Sam Garafalo added 12. Alan Reid led Albany with 19 points and Jack Adams hit 15.

There is no rest for the weary as the State schedule indicates. The Hawks hit the road Friday and Saturday against two of the toughest teams in the SUNYAC Geneseo and Brockport in that order.

Geneseo trails the conference leaders Brockport and Buffalo with a 4-2 record. Brockport is tied with Buffalo with a 5-1 mark, as Fedonia upset Buffalo, 42-40 Tuesday night.

The score:

Dear Abby

'Victimized' by In-law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a very unusual problem: my mother-in-law loves me! My husband, my child, and I are constantly showered with unnecessary and unsolicited gifts, barraged by two or three phone calls each day, given helpful but unsolicited suggestions, advice, etc.

It has been difficult to accept her "love offerings" graciously since I feel that both my in-laws unconsciously want my husband and me to be indebted to them forever.

We both have high-paying jobs and are financially independent, but my husband is still so emotionally attached to his mother that he asks her to make his dental appointments for him.

When we had our first child the gift giving situation became even more pronounced, which makes my parents look unloving and stingy, which they certainly are not.

I know that if this is the biggest problem I ever have I'll be lucky, but in the meantime, I would like your advice on how to tactfully handle this situation with Mom.

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW
DEAR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW:

As I see it, you are a "victim" by generous in-laws who give you presents, and show by their constant attention that they have not forgotten you. I don't know what is in need of "handling" — unless it could be your inability to graciously accept that which is undoubtedly offered in good faith.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are newweds and we are both very fond of pets. We have two dogs and three cats

(I had a poodle before we were married and Jim had a German Shepherd, and the cats are strays.)

We are furnishing a small home and I want a bright green carpet in the living room. Jim says, "No, anything but green. The pets will think it's grass and you know what will happen to the carpet."

Is this true? I asked our vet and he just laughed, so now I'm asking you.

DEAR ABBY: I am still burning from the letter a 19-year-old girl wrote to you, saying she didn't think she should pay any room and board or help her mother with the housework.

Abby, I completely agree with you. She should grow up. I am 23 years old, and am in the United States navy. When I go home on leave I pay room and board because I don't expect my parents to feed me for 30 days. Their responsibility ended when I joined the navy.

RESPECTFULLY,
G.R.A. (Vietnam)

CONFIDENTIAL TO
"WORRIED AGAIN" IN
EVANSTON, ILL.: Sorry, but I can't help you in the manner that you suggest. It might be in the interest of society to put the pill into vending machines and require a prescription for cigarettes.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose (LSD FOR DANGER: (Q) I read the letter from the girl whose friends wanted her to go on a LSD trip with them. I won't take LSD and maybe she won't either if she reads this.

LSD can split chromosomes. When male and female make love, both give chromosomes. If just one of these chromosomes is split, whether in male or female, the baby may be deformed. Even if just one of them took it just once. My question for this girl is: Is LSD worth it if it ruins the next generation?—No LSD for Me in Pennsylvania.

(A.) A National Foundation-March of Dimes pamphlet lists 46 reasons not to take LSD. The 46 reasons are the 46 chromosomes in a normal human cell.

If something is wrong with the chromosomes of either parent, something may be wrong with the baby. LSD can break chromosomes. Broken chromosomes may cause birth defects. If you want to know more about this, write the National Foundation-March of Dimes, 800 Second Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

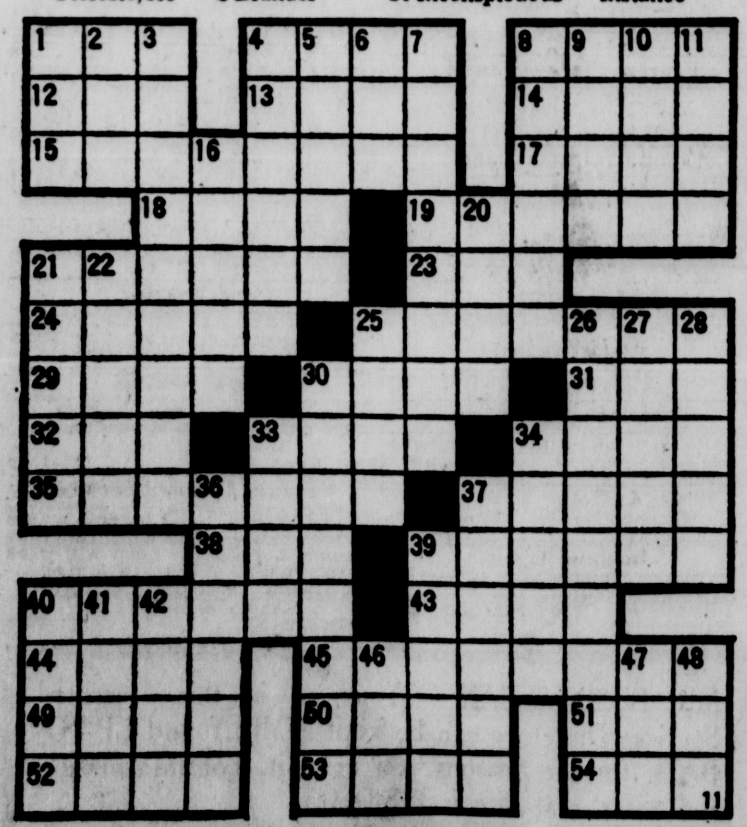

SMOKE-SICK: (Q) Who says marijuana is not habit-forming? My friend and I are addicted to it. If we stay off a couple of days we get terribly depressed. We also get headaches, upset stomachs, and blurry vision. Please tell others not to smoke not. It may ruin their lives.—A Victim of Mary Jane in Connecticut.

(A.) Some authorities say that marijuana is not addictive in the same way that more powerful drugs can addict a user. But if not having pot can put you in the dumps and make you sick, it certainly has you hooked. All teen-agers should read your letter.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on accumulation of material goods. Excellent for paying, collecting debts. Don't waste motion, time or money. Gift for one at home could make tonight a festive occasion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are in spotlight; cycle is high and many observe your actions — and reactions. Trust judgment. Intuition is accurate. Make contacts; take initiative.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Air of mystery prevails. People tend to say one thing and mean another. Realize this and be perceptive. Look behind the scenes. A secret of value could be unintentionally revealed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent on fulfillment of desires. You acquire needed assets. Use them wisely. Some are only too willing to part you from money. Keep guard up; protect yourself in clinches.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accomplishment is key. Promotion is "in the air." You gain prestige. Accent assignment which could include added pressure, responsibility. You are capable and now get chance to prove it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Good lunar aspect today coincides with romantic interests, creative endeavors. Emotions fly high. But also make room for logic. You must face yourself in morning.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Try unorthodox methods. Usual procedures apt to run into roadblocks. Know this and act accordingly. Finances of mate, partner could be involved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

continued with the 10 and finessed. East took his queen and led a heart, whereupon the defense wound up with three more tricks and 50 points above the line.

We might have had some indication of the location of the diamond queen if we were at the table. Sitting here on the sidelines, we feel it was just about as close to an absolute guess as you can find in a bridge game.

We also feel that it is a guess that should never have been made. South would have made six if he had picked the queen of diamonds but his contract was four, not six. He should have taken the third trump in dummy and led the singleton club. If East ducked, South wouldn't lose a club trick; if East rose with the ace, South would be able to discard three of dummy's diamonds on good clubs and not need the diamond finesse at all. Finally, if West won the trick with the ace and led a heart, South would be back to guessing the diamond later on.

Washing the face with wine is part of an ancient beauty secret, and to this day many have a rosy complexion—from applying it internally.

The klipspringer is a small antelope—and all this while we indicated that he held honors in both red suits. Therefore, he played his ace of diamonds, pinning the mainspring.

anyone who wants to improve his bridge should practice one of his precepts for his own play, which is, "There is practically never such a thing as an absolute guess," and "Any time you have a two-way finesse for a queen and go wrong, charge yourself with a mistake."

Today's South drew trumps with three leads. Then he decided that West's trump lead indicated that he held honors in both red suits. Therefore, he played his ace of diamonds, pinning the mainspring.

This 'Wild River' Pleasant

NEW YORK (AP) — "Wild River," CBS' National Geographic Society series entry Tuesday night combined an assortment of themes, all pleasant and interesting.

Basically the program was a filmed account of a trip down the majestic Hudson River and of the serene, blue Potomac. Then closeups of these rivers showed detergent foam floating like dirty meringues, raw sewage and industrial wastes pouring into the streams, dead fish.

Then too there were short excursions into American history. The film of the Hudson moved into a short history of West Point at the time of the American Revolution. The sight of a deserted miner's cabin stimulated a reminiscence of the days of the Western gold rush, both illustrated by pictures.

Another brief shirtillo showed some of the Craighead clan in the Everglades, with comment about another area whose future is under constant threat.

Despite the general shapelessness of the hour as a television form and the high flow quality of the narrator's prose, it was a colorful and worthy effort although not up to the usual standard of this fine series.

Timely Quotes

I think Mr. Nixon, as President, comes across very much like Mr. Nixon, the man. He's tough, he knows his subject, he's honest, he's confident... He has the ability to create a sense of involvement.

—Roger E. Ailes, TV adviser for the President.

If we are able to keep the public support and the budgetary support that we now have, and if we don't have some national emergency to divert attention, we can break the racks—and we will break them.

—Assistant Attorney General Will R. Wilson.

The United States has no objection whatsoever to Cuba's returning to the inter-American system so long as its government respects the principle of nonintervention in the internal affairs of neighboring countries.

—Assistant Secretary of State Charles A. Meyer.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Several fish species produce electricity capable of being released outside the body at the will of the fish. These fishes have electric cells arranged in a series-parallel manner. The World Almanac notes. A series arrangement is shown by electric fishes living in fresh water. In salt water, a parallel array prevails to compensate for the greater conductivity of this medium.

County Demos Look to the November Vote

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Democrat candidates for nomination in the November election began to emerge this week with West Shokan lawyer David Lenefsky indicating to the Ulster County Democratic Committee that he is interested in opposing incumbent Republican Jay P. Rolison for his State Senate seat.

Although he would neither confirm or deny it, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo of Kingston also thought to be a serious candidate for the same nomination and probably wouldn't hesitate to take Lenefsky on in a Primary.

Ellenville lawyer Alex J. Nirenberg spoke freely at a meeting this week of the committee saying he would like consideration for the nomination to oppose the GOP-declared candidate for district attorney, Francis J. Vogt. After subsequent approval by the committee Nirenberg said he was overwhelmed and gratified by its support and that after counseling with family and friends he would make known his availability.

Democratic County Chairman Aaron E. Klein told The Freeman today that another and a statewide candidate for attorney general — Rockland County District Attorney Robert Meehan also appeared at the meeting to promote his candidacy to oppose the incumbent Republican Louis K. Lefkowitz.

Still another and definite contender to oppose the incumbent county treasurer, Fred H. DuBois, is Kingston lawyer Joseph D. Saccoman.

Other Democrats mentioned prominently as possible candidates include District 10 Legislator George Barthel, who is reportedly interested in opposing incumbent Republican Assemblyman H. Clark Bell.

Although not confirmed, there is also word that a Schoharie County woman might possibly be interested in opposing Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. for his post. She is Mrs. Martha Dayton, chairman of the Schoharie Board of Supervisors.

Anyone wishing to gain the Democratic nomination for Congress would have to have the sanction of the nine counties involved in the newly redistricted 28th Congressional District.

Klein indicated that he did not feel that Ulster County would put forth its own candidate for Congress. He also said he did not feel that the local Democratic Party would put up a candidate for coroner this year.

With regard to the state senate nomination, Lenefsky would need both the Ulster and the Dutchess county endorsement for the nomination. In addition to his law practice, he is a policy analyst and researcher for the United Nations Association of the USA.

The son of a prominent trial lawyer, the New York City native received his masters at New York University Law School.

An outspoken opponent of U.S. policy in Vietnam, he addressed students at State University College at New Paltz during the November Moratorium claiming the U.S. is engaged in chemical warfare in Vietnam.

Klein said that Lenefsky had indicated that he would spend both time and money if he gets the nomination for state senator adding that he would take a leave of absence from his UN position in order to campaign.

The Rockland DA, in promoting his candidacy for attorney general said that Lefkowitz is still oriented to the 1950's and that the job calls for someone who fits the needs of the 1970's. He claimed Lefkowitz has done nothing about organized crime or in the area of discrimination. He said he would bring action against banks and the real estate profession to halt discrimination.

Saigon Rangers Kill 79 Red Troops

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Rangers intercepted a North Vietnamese regiment in the Mekong Delta near the Cambodian border and killed 79 of them in fighting reported today.

Far to the north near South Vietnam's northern coast, guerrillas broke into a U.S. paratrooper base early today and battled the defenders for two hours before helicopter gunships drove them off.

Military spokesmen said the Mekong Delta fighting Tuesday involved another attempt by the 88th North Vietnamese Regiment to take My Tho, the delta's second largest city and headquarters of the South Vietnamese 7th Division.

In the last four days of fighting in the same area, South Vietnamese irregular troops reported killing 117 members of the North Vietnamese 88th Regiment.

A prisoner captured by South Vietnamese irregulars last weekend identified the unit and said it was advancing on My Tho, military sources said.

The Rangers suffered no casualties in the latest fighting, military spokesmen said. But South Vietnamese irregulars earlier lost 22 killed and 25 wounded in delta action.

Rangers reported finding 39 bodies of North Vietnamese in a sweep of the battleground today. It brought to 79 the number killed in the latest action.

One prisoner was taken and several weapons captured.

The fighting early today near the northern coast broke out as guerrillas attacked a company of the 101st Airborne Division 40 miles northwest of Da Nang.

Three men of the division were killed and 10 others were wounded in the fighting. The attackers left two dead and losses among the South Vietnamese troops at the camp were described as light.

The raiders pounded the camp with 40 rocket grenades in the assault.

Calley Situation -- Fool or Jackass

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—The defense wants to put Lt. William L. Calley's brigade commander on the stand to clarify his alleged statement he would be "a fool or a jackass" to ignore President Nixon's wishes in the Calley case.

A former law officer at Ft. Benning, Capt. William R. Hill, testified Tuesday that Lt. Col.

Lon D. Marlow Jr., now retired, used the "fool or jackass" phrase to describe the Calley situation. Hill said it had been his duty to advise Marlow on legal matters.

Marlowe and the Ft. Benning chief of staff, Col. Jim D. Keirsey, were called to testify today in the third-and, the defense says, last-day of a pretrial hearing. Calley, 26, is yet to be set for what the government charges was premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in March, 1968.

Defense attorney George W. Latimer is contending Calley cannot get a fair trial in any military court because the shadow of high command urgency to prosecute, with a go-ahead from the White House, has fallen on lower echelons.

Marlowe, as commander of the school brigade in the Army training center here, ordered the local investigation of the alleged massacre at My Lai 4 village in South Vietnam. That was in late summer, after the local brass had been informed the Army command in Washington had been investigating the incident since April.

Several officers have testified at the hearing they learned before the charges were brought against Calley Sept. 5 that the matter has been sent to the West Coast White House for review by the President.

All officers who processed the case here now have testified. All have said there was no high command influence brought to bear on their decision to bring Calley to trial.

Forgetfulness at Hostel-- And Today He's Still Alive

VAL D'ISERE, France (UPI)—Benoit Mikolajczak got to the hostel dining room and discovered he had forgotten a handkerchief. He credits the return to his room for saving his life.

The 19-year-old Brussels youth's forgetfulness kept him from his window table in the dining room long enough to spare him the full impact of the avalanche that smashed through at breakfast Tuesday, killing 39 persons and injuring at least 60.

Officials fearing more snow slides in this area's worst blizzard in memory ordered the ground floors of all buildings in the outlying areas evacuated to prevent another disaster. Displaced persons trudged to the center of the city where a theater became home for 300 of them.

100-Yard-Wide Slide

Mikolajczak had just returned to the dining room, handkerchief in pocket, when the 100-yard-wide avalanche slammed into the stone hostel and a nearby hotel, knocking a gaping hole in the three-story hostel.

"I was at the foot of the staircase," he said. "There was this huge noise and the snow crashed through. The force of the wind in front threw me clear across the room."

"If I hadn't gone back upstairs, I know I would have been killed because I always sat at a table next to the window where the avalanche hit."

Holiday Shattered
The dining room at the moment of impact was crowded with about 200 youths, all under 25, who had thronged to this world-famous ski resort for a week of relaxation during the Mardi Gras holiday.

"I was only buried up to the waist, but I'll never forget what I saw," Mikolajczak said. "Everything was carried away by the snow. I could see the cars in the chalet garage, crushed one on top of another."

He suffered head injuries and was evacuated to Bourg St. Maurice with most of the other injured. It was the worst avalanche in 100 years in the French Alps. All the dead were French.

Crime and Air Freight

NEW YORK (AP)—The air freight industry at one of the nation's largest airports is "trapped" by gangsters, U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell says.

He did not say which airport, but his remarks Tuesday recalled charges made two years ago by the New York State Investigation Commission that organized crime had infiltrated the freight trade at Kennedy Airport.

Mitchell said thievery was rampant at the airport he was thinking of. Losses from thefts at Kennedy Airport have run into the millions in recent years. Only a month ago five men were arrested in the theft of $200,000 in jewelry, coins and watches.

Mitchell told 400 New York Bond Club members Tuesday that the freight trade at the unidentified airport "is trapped between a racketeer-dominated trade union on one hand and a racketeer trade association on the other."

Mitchell said gangsters who had infiltrated the trucking business could watch shipments and steal anything of value. He said his office was investigating.

He also said organized crime

Commandos Charged

ATHENS (UPI)—Two Arab commandos charged with opening fire on an Israeli airliner at Athens Airport Dec. 26, 1969, will go on trial Feb. 17, the Greek government said Tuesday night. Mahmoud Issa Mohamad, 26, and Maher Hussein Suleyman El Yamani, 20, are accused of killing a passenger and injuring a stewardess.

had begun to operate "with a great deal of efficiency and profit" in stealing stocks and bonds. He said $45 million in securities had been lost or stolen in the first nine months of 1969 alone.

Mitchell said the Justice Department was negotiating with the New York Stock Exchange to set up a permanent $250,000 fund that would be used for undercover men to purchase stolen stocks as evidence.

He also said his department would begin making raids of banks suspected of dealing in stolen securities.
